

New Registrar's Guide to DAR Websites

The DAR offers a considerable amount of information to members online. Navigating this can be daunting for even the most seasoned DAR member. For new registrars, finding the correct information is essential to learn how to properly prepare and submit new member applications and supplemental applications. This guide is designed to be a quick reference to essential resources for registrars offered on DAR websites.

The Members' Website <http://members.dar.org>

Among the resources found on the Members' Website are:

Registrar General's Page <http://members.dar.org/execs/regg.cfm>

The Registrar General's page is part of a series of pages for executive officers. Here you will find an overview of the duties of the Office of the Registrar General and of the various committees that work with this office.

Applications/Supplementals Section <http://members.dar.org/apps/>

These pages provide detailed information on the requirements for preparing and submitting applications. You will find downloadable forms and publications, such as the Application Checklist, the application form; Is That Service Right?; Is That Lineage Right?; Application Papers: Instructions for Their Preparation; and Guide for Chapter Registrars.

Chapter Development and Revitalization Commission <http://members.dar.org/committees/chaptDev-Rev/index.htm>

The CDR's mission is to "coordinate available DAR resources to support chapters in gaining new members and developing and educating current members so they will be more active and involved.

Organizing Secretary General's Page <http://members.dar.org/execs/orgsecg.cfm>

The Office of the Organizing Secretary General is responsible for maintaining the permanent records of membership for the Society as well as many other tasks.

DAR Leadership Training <http://members.dar.org/committees/training/index.htm>

In particular, look for archived webinars on genealogy topics such as the Build-an-App.
