4. Introduction of the topic:
   Introduce topic from the idea that the classroom has rules; so does the US government. Those rules are listed in the Constitution as our school rules might be listed in the handbook or classroom rules on a location on the wall or such of class. We celebrate the signing of our Constitution on September 17, 1797. Use video Schoolhouse Rock: Constitution https://youtu.be/0EfNUT_nWY. Let students list some things the video said about Constitution, may make list on board or computer doc.
5. Procedure for instruction:
Introduce vocabulary with definitions and in sentences, relating them to school analogies to help them understand better: Constitution, legislative, executive, judicial, citizenship

1. Rules - Why do we need rules, what might happen if we did not have rules - discuss, listing on class document; Compare and contrast rules for classroom and rules for country using broad areas such as rights and responsibilities

2. Branches - use idea of tree, drawing a tree and listing each branch as it is discussed; (optional - use leaves to say what each branch’s basic function is) - all branches part of one entity - Executive is president/vice president (enforces law); legislative is congress-senate, house of representatives (makes law); judicial is courts (interprets law); Does school have these branches? If not, what is the structure of school? (Perhaps Principals - Teachers - School Board)

3. Constitution Week - Discuss: Why do we celebrate certain days? Why do we celebrate Independence Day? Constitution Week is another celebration/remembrance of an important part of history. Discuss reasons for this (sets up our government, lists our rights or freedoms, remind us of responsibilities etc.)

6. Lesson closure:
Suggestions: draw picture of “Constitution tree” with three branches of government named; draw picture showing person being good citizen of US; make a poster encouraging people to celebrate Constitution Week; sign a pledge to read/remember/respect the US Constitution

7. Assessment of student understanding:
Quiz: circle three branches of government from given list, T/F - the US Constitution lists rules for our government; write or draw one way to be a good US citizen;
