REPORT OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE TWENTY-FIRST CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

On Monday, April 15, 1912, at 11.10 a. m., congress was called to order by the president general, Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, and all joined in singing America; after which the chaplain general, Miss Elizabeth Pierce, conducted the devotional exercises of the morning. The credential committee, Mrs. Henry L. Mann, chairman, reported 1,722 entitled to vote in the twenty-first congress, and after the roll call and acceptance of the report of the credential committee, the house was declared in order for the transaction of business.

Congress arose in silent recognition of the death of Clara Barton and in appreciation of her life work, also to express sympathy for Mrs. Donald McLean upon the death of her daughter. The report of the program committee was made by Mrs. Jamison, chairman, and upon its acceptance a recess was taken until 3 p. m.

The audience at the afternoon session taxed the capacity of Memorial Continental Hall to its utmost, although limited to the delegates and members of the society. The boxes were filled by distinguished friends of the organization, while a notable company of men and women were seated upon the platform, including, beside the president general, Dr. Moses Greeley Parker, president general of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, Prof. Libbey, of Princeton University, secretary of the Sons of the Revolution, Mr. John Mason, Mrs. A. W. Greely, Mrs. John W. Foster, Mrs. Charles Warren Fairbanks, and members of the national board of management. As the president general called congress to order, a bugle call rang out, the Marine Band played the Star Spangled Banner, and the audience rose to greet the President of the United States, William Howard Taft, who, after a brief introduction, spoke as follows:

Daughters of the American Revolution: I am here to discharge the pleasant annual duty that falls to the President of the United States of welcoming the beauties of spring and the beauties of the Daughters. They come together, and the sweet association of the two things makes you very welcome.

I hope that your deliberations this year may be as useful as those which you have had in the past. Your numbers indicate that the interest in what you are to do is as great as it ever has been. You are here to stimulate the memories of, and the respect for, those men who made this nation possible and who laid broad its foundation in the Constitution of the United States; and you are here, if I understand, to uphold the principles of that Constitution, and to insist on their preservation as long as this nation shall endure.

We have reached a time in the history of politics in this country when we have to take down our copies of the Constitution and our copies of the Federalist, and of the history of the growth of our institutions, and renew our vows to the principles that were there embodied in our governmental structure, to insist that they shall not be departed from, but that they shall be maintained in their vitalizing force to continue our pursuit of happiness and the guaranties of our institutions for the maintenance of liberty regulated by law. I am saying these things not because I believe it is necessary to say them to you to convince you of the soundness of such principles, but because I know they are with you always, even in your prayers, and that you believe them as thoroughly as I do. But it does not hurt to repeat your prayers. It does not hurt to repeat your creed, whether it be a religious creed or a political creed.

As the strains of the Star Spangled Banner died away and President Taft left the hall, the president general came forward and delivered the following address:

Ladies of the Twenty-first Continental Congress: Just 21 short years ago there met in this, our National Capital, a small group of noble and far-sighted women, whose view reached back into a glorious past, to dwell with admiration and love upon the heroic achievements of the mighty dead; and whose prophetic glance likewise swept forward into the formless void of the future; seeing there also a majestic panorama vision of generation after generation of devoted sons and daughters, working out the exalted destiny of a common country. These women were the beloved and honored originators of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution—the mighty organization which in less than one generation has sprung from that small beginning.

Ladies, I regret to state that there are people in this land who still persist in misunderstanding our aims and purposes. There are those who, in spite of all the evidence to the contrary, decline to see in us anything but a species of mutual admiration society, for the promotion of "pink teas" and ancestor worship. To them our chapter meetings, as well as our State conferences and national congresses, seem to be mere inconsequential gatherings of a semisocial nature, for the purpose of reading the minutes of the last meeting and electing officers for forthcoming ones. To them our patriotic principles and efforts are merely a cloak to hide our real purpose, namely, the furthering of the paltry, tawdry ambition of the alert among us to gain admission to the social citadels of the élite.

During the first few years of our existence of necessity our energy and time were largely devoted to the work of building up our numerical strength, and keeping green in the national consciousness the record and recollection of old Revolutionary heroes and old Revolutionary days. Let it be said to the honor of the great leaders of our society, during its early formative period, that with a rare and splendid prescience they intuitively divined that mere numerical strength will never make us great; that a slavish devotion to the memories of past heroes and past heroism is not a sufficient nor a satisfactory sign that the blood of Revolutionary sires still courses in our veins. From the very inception of our organization we have felt the inspiration of the lofty and sublime conception that it is our high duty and privilege to keep brightly burning upon our national hearthstone the true patriotic fire of old Revolutionary days, or, in other words, that it is our mission to bring to the solution of every national problem with which we are confronted the same spirit of unselfish devotion, the same invincible belief in the expediency of doing right though the heavens fall, that was shown by the generation of great and good men who baptized this Nation with their blood—in order that it might become a fit habitation for free men and free women, and an example or prototype for all the tyrant-oppressed nations of the earth.

For a generation or two after this heroic epoch of our history our Nation stood at the forefront of the hosts of progress, on the remotest outpost of the firing line of humanity's vanguard. But to-day it must be admitted that the main army of civilization has practically caught up with us. We no longer are regarded as the political and social experiment station of the world. Critical foreigners are beginning to feel that our beautiful statue in New York Harbor of "Liberty enlightening the world" might, perhaps, be more appropriately located on top of the Matterhorn or the Jungfrau, in the heart of little Switzerland, the most truly democratic country in the world.

As a Nation we have been content in recent years to doze and sleep on our moral and political laurels of world leadership. Americans, like the Germans of this generation, have focused their attention too largely upon the victories of the market place; have been all too ready to risk their lives, their fortunes, and in many cases even their sacred honor, in the pursuit of the selfish, sodden ideal of mere financial success. In the light of this portentous fact, what is our imperative and exalted duty to our country at this time? No amount of eloquent verbal appreciation of heroic ancestors will absolve this generation of its difficult task of working out ethical and humane solutions for all the pressing economic and social problems of our times. Action, disinterested, aggressive action, is called for—action worthy of our ancestors, and worthy of the occasion.

In view of this state of affairs, various committees have been created from time to time during our history. Moreover, this process of development of differentiation of functions is not yet finished and never can be allowed to stop until the unselfish, patriotic "spirit of seventy-six" has been applied to every problem that confronts the American people—has been made once more the dominant force in our national life. It is not enough to be the daughters of a revolution that is passed; we must be active participants in every phase of the never-ceasing evolution of the present and perchance mothers of vaster revolutions yet to come.

There can be no disputing the fact that a goodly number of American women are wonderfully successful home makers. But at the same time it must be admitted that a large number of our household mistresses must plead guilty to the charges of extravagance—technical ignorance of household economy—and a considerable degree of all-around inefficiency, both as housekeepers and as home makers, for the terms are not synonymous.

It is a commonplace among sociologists that in most well-to-do American homes enough is wasted in the kitchen alone to keep a French family in comfort. We are also wasteful of light and heat, and above all of our time and energy. Our country is in dire need of a woman who will do for the home what a distinguished inventor and public benefactor in Philadelphia has done for the factory; that is, introduce an "efficiency" system which will do away with our present waste of both money and time and increase the quantity and quality of the actual output, not only of creature comforts but also of artistic attractiveness and of that indefinable atmosphere of peace and restfulness which, of all the by-products of home life, is certainly the pearl of greatest price. The time will surely come when both mistress and maid will prepare for their life's work as home makers with the same care and enthusiasm that men now put into the work of perfecting themselves in their various trades and professions. Home making, like piano playing, is an art, to succeed in which requires something more than temperament. Until the technique has been properly mastered, temperament has little opportunity to manifest itself to advantage.

A generation ago home making and farming were occupations that anyone with a mediocre intelligence and a reasonable degree of industry was considered sufficiently equipped for. But to-day these two avocations occupy a secure and increasingly important place among the learned professions. In every State in the Union we have magnificent agricultural colleges and schools of domestic science, in which are being prepared for their respective careers thousands of prospective farmers and thousands of prospective housewives. Moreover, several bills are now pending before Congress—notably the splendid Davis bill—which provide for the widest possible dissemination of instruction in agriculture and domestic science among the rural population of every county in this Nation.

This is a glorious work. The proposed instruction in agriculture is something which, as a farmer myself, I am particularly enthusiastic about. Yet I feel that quite as important as this will be the educational facilities in the household arts and in the highest home-making ideals which are to be placed within reach of every housekeeper and every prospective housekeeper in this land. Just as agriculture is the basis of all our material prosperity and power, so the home is the perennial and sacred source from which emanate those potent, ennobling, and refining influences which slowly and silently have lifted men out of past savagery, and will yet, we trust, lift us out of our present state of semicivilization—with its class war, political and business corruption, and industrial brutality—on to higher and ever higher stages of moral, intellectual, and social development.

This is my idea of the relatedness of patriotism to the home. Is there any question in the mind of any member of this organization that this is truly patriotism in its essence?

The second realm of opportunity which I want to point out to you this morning is that which spreads out before us in a bewildering splendor of promise in connection with the schooling of the young. We are all aware that the large majority of our common and high school teachers are women. In many of our States women vote for members of the school board, and if a majority of them really wanted this right, there is no doubt that they would secure it everywhere. In this event, it would be a comparatively easy matter for them to formulate and carry through policies of their own. Thus from the cradle to the university the education of the children is potentially in the hands of the women of this country.

This is a power which the priests of various religions frequently have endeavored to obtain on the grounds that if they were allowed to control and dominate the child's mind during its formative period their influence upon its after life would be dominant and enduring. I wonder if we realize what almost unlimited power over future generations is thus intrusted to our hands. Are we exercising that power with an adequate sense of the responsibility which it places upon our shoulders? Are we rising to that responsibility with a whole-hearted devotion which indicates an intelligent appreciation of the tremendous issues at stake? Have the women of this country yet evolved an educational ideal and an educational program? And if not, why not?

There are now thousands and hundreds of thousands of our sex who are pining for something to do which they can feel is entirely and splendidly worth their while. How fortunate it is that here, already at hand, is a task which nature and "man, the tyrant," are agreed is peculiarly adapted to our particular tastes and talents. But what are we doing about it? Little, as a sex, I fear, that is either significant or creditable. When not merely in a few isolated cases, but as a class, the women of America decide what they want in the way of education for their children, if they want it badly enough there is no earthly power which can stand between them and their splendid ideal goal.

But this means work—persistent, intelligent work. First of all, in the matter of self-education, and secondly, in that of carrying on an aggressive campaign for the education of our own sex, and, if possible, of the other sex as well.

I am beginning to get deeply concerned, not about our lack of adequate opportunities for public service, but about our failure so far to measure up to the incomparable opportunities which are already ours.

As a practical suggestion, may I say that I would be glad to see the scope of our committee on patriotic education enlarged so as to embrace the whole subject of the education of the young—in this way our entire national society made a realm of education in its true sense. If there is any one subject in which we, as women and as patriots, ought to be intensely and intelligently interested, it is in this subject of education—not in the academic sense alone, but in the broader view of character building—upon a proper understanding and handling of which depends the very future of civilization.

This, I take it, is a truly patriotic work for the D. A. R., when thoroughly grasped, and will as truly mark milestones of progress in our lifetime as those we may leave behind in material form.

The third of these brilliant avenues of possible social service which open out before us in beautiful vistas of alluring opportunity, is one which is involved in the purchasing power of women. As a general thing, men are the wage earners of the country and women are the wage spenders. Nearly all of the household expenditures of the family are made by the wives and mothers of the race. It is a sad commentary upon our business ability and our rudimentary sense of social solidarity that so few of us have any realizing sense of the potential power, over the business and industrial world, which is inherent in this, our position as buyer, or spender, for the family.

I call your attention to the fact that if the women of America would but pool their purchasing power, and resisting all the blandishments of the "bargain counter" and the "sale"—based on sweat-shop labor—would demand pure goods, made and sold under sanitary and salutary conditions—more could be accomplished for the moral and material uplift of the factory worker and the saleswoman than by the enactment of a volume of restrictive statutes, the breaking of which we thoughtlessly connive at and practically become a party to, in our mad scramble for cheapness at any cost of human degradation and wreckage.

A superb organization, known as the "Consumers' League," has come into being for the express purpose of enabling men, as well as women, to utilize their purchasing power in the great work of raising the standards of the business and industrial worlds, both as to the purity of the product offered to the public and the fairness of the treatment accorded to employees.

Of all the splendid "movements" and "causes" which to-day invite our cooperation and support, this is one of many which seems to me to fall naturally within our province, as wives and mothers of good men and true, of this generation, and as descendants of the great men of Revolutionary days. It is the principle underlying this great crusade of the "Consumers' League" and like organizations which appeal to us. As a matter of fact, this is a work—for the betterment of women in the business and industrial worlds—which we can not avoid doing, without definitely and publicly shirking our heavy economic and moral responsibilities as family purveyors and budget makers; or, in other words, as domestic chancellors of the exchequer.

Far be it from me to say that members of our sex may not some day decide to undertake, in addition to their other duties, the heavy responsibilities of the voter and political worker. Perhaps it may transpire that upon our planet the true superman is woman, and that she is entirely capable of doing the man's work as well as her own. But, in the interim, until this fact has been satisfactorily demonstrated, let us devote ourselves whole-heartedly to what is more particularly woman's work; to those delicate and difficult tasks for which man's clumsy fingers and prosaic processes of reasoning are unfitted and wholly inadequate. And, above all, let us be quite sure that we do our especial work—at least as well as he does his—before we insist upon taking a hand in his activities and improving upon his methods of performing his highly useful, if somewhat less exalted, functions. This, as I understand it, has always been the attitude maintained by our national society in the past. If some of our most beloved members have dreamed of and worked for a wider future scope for our talents and energies this fact has not prevented us, as an organization, from throwing ourselves enthusiastically into divers kinds of social work which lay ready at hand—for which the harvest was manifestly ripe and the laborers so amazingly few.

It may seem in these lines of work somewhat unique, and hitherto undefined as patriotic, that I am departing a long way from the usual addresses on patriotism. But I ask your careful consideration of this subconscious knowledge of every woman's breast, that at least every issue and question I have referred to has its foundation in life and action—the sure meaning of noble and holy patriotism applied, in its broadest and deepest sense.

In the ways in which I have so hastily and sketchily outlined this afternoon, and in other and perhaps better ways that may not yet have occurred to any of us, our great national society is destined to continue its triumphant march upward and on—conquering and to conquer—in the name of the great principles upon which our national organization is founded, and in the name of patriots living and dead who have labored and sacrificed to make of this, our fatherland, what, under God, it is, has been, and ever must remain—the greatest nation on earth! Because, beneath the ample folds of its unconquered flag, there live more free, happy, and God-fearing people than upon any other part of the habitable globe!

Mrs. A. W. Greely, introduced by the president general as “one of our earliest and most honored vice president generals,” spoke as follows:

Madam President General, Daughters of the American Revolution: It is with great pleasure that I welcome you to our capital, which you have assisted in making one of the most beautiful in the world, by the erection of this magnificent building.

You have this year attained your majority as a society. As one of its incorporators I know from what it has grown, and when I look upon this splendid body of women, representing over 80,000 descendants of Revolutionary heroes, and realize the work you have already done in so many patriotic directions, I anticipate a still more glorious future for you. In fact, I can see no limit to the size to which this society may attain nor to the work it can accomplish.

You are instilling the principles of our Constitution into the great foreign element that pours in upon us yearly. You are preserving historic monuments, and thus keeping alive memories of the principles of economy, thrift, simplicity, and rugged courage of their convictions—religious and civil—which animated our forefathers.

But of the many noble causes in which you have interested yourselves, one, I believe, especially appeals to every daughter of a Revolutionary sire: This is the elevation of long-forgotten descendants of our mutual ancestors dwelling in the mountain fastnesses and bare valleys of the Appalachians. The terrible tragedy recently enacted in that section, through citizens of absolutely American lineage, surely accentuates their need of enlightenment and the desirability of turning the strength, bravery, and courage of those mountain people into channels of good. In all this work God bless you.

Before a final word of welcome I wish to congratulate the society in having a presiding officer of such clearness of perception, such unusual force and intelligence, and withal such charming address as exist in the person of our president general.

And now, as we all have an equal claim on our National Capital, in welcoming this twenty-first congress of Daughters of the American Revolution here to-day, I feel that I, as a stay-at-home, am only greeting the absent members of one family who are returning to their own.

Mrs. Alexander E. Patton, of Pennsylvania, was next introduced and responded as follows to Mrs. Greely's address of welcome:

Madam Greely, the hearty and gracious words with which you have just welcomed us should make us feel that the bond between us all will grow stronger each day and by our mutual efforts bring much success in our undertakings. Criticism has been made of hereditary societies that they rely too much on the past. A noble lineage is a great thing, but an even greater thing is to live the life that deserves it. It is the aim of the members of this society to show themselves worthy, for we realize that those who depend entirely upon the reputation of their ancestors soon cease to be like them. We would remember glorious examples that we may imitate them, hoping that in our lives there may still shine some of the reflected glory which comes from high and noble actions. We would train our children to read anew the history of our country, and revivify and recall a word which is fast going out of American life, the inspiring word "reverence."

This society has justified itself by what it has already done for patriotism and education by its work in offering prizes in the public schools, by its recognition of the flag, and the preservation and marking of historic spots in so many States. It is not too much to say that the great revival in the study of American history, which has produced such abundant fruit during recent years, is due largely to the existence and growth of hereditary organizations like the D. A. R. It represents, then, the work and life which bring the greatest joy—the life of service—the life for others—not the things which perish with the using, but which remain and are immortal.

To you, Daughters of the American Revolution, in this age of commercialism, is granted, then, the great privilege of showing that some things are better than money, of recalling the nobility and sacrifices of the age of heroes and heroines, of pointing the way to ideals, of showing how high and holy a thing it is to die for a cause, in recalling the noble characters which, as a Nation, it is able in its hour of trial to reproduce, alone makes it truly great.

I commend to you, then, the work of this Society of American women working for the upbuilding of our country and our homes, whose mission will not be ended until every foreign child can understandingly, and with fervor, sing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," and find his way to the open door of the public school; until the lessons of American history shall be universally read and remembered, and the great examples of the past shall thrill and inspire our children to noble deeds, and guide our national life to yet loftier heights.

Prof. Libbey, Secretary of the Sons of the Revolution, was next presented by the President General, and said in part:

The Society of Sons of the Revolution, in sending its most cordial greetings, can only say "all hail," and express the wish that a portion of the same spirit which has inspired you may descend upon them also.

The day has come when what has been called the "unsubmerged tenth" of our citizens, those who represent the old original stock, should once more think very seriously upon those ideas which helped to form our character as a Nation. Our ancestors planned large things, they dreamed dreams and saw visions. How have we lived up to their aspirations?

We have made much progress in the past one hundred years and have not hesitated to proclaim it, but are we dealing as successfully with the large problems of to-day as our fathers dealt with the comparatively smaller problems of their day? Has our progress been marked by that sturdy, honest character which developed in those Colonial homes, or have we been neglecting those ideals of individual uprightness which form the greatest safeguard of the State?

Let me speak of some of these things, for on all of these subjects patriotic societies should be a unit: First, we should hold out for a higher standard of education along all lines. For example, while we remember that the freedom of those early days meant, among other things, the freedom to worship God, we are forgetting that education and morals should go together. Though our ancestors sometimes differed very seriously upon the methods of worshipping God, they were all believers in a God; few of them were atheists, and as a nation we must again learn that there is a higher law than that made by man.

There are natural laws which man did not make, and which man can not unmake. Gravitation is such a law; obey it, and you prosper; disobey it, and you are punished. So also there are social laws which were not man-made, and man violates them only to suffer. We pride ourselves upon our obedience to the law of the majority, and we forget that the majority is not God, and when that majority becomes a mob, the civil laws are always broken.

These facts have an important bearing upon our relations to the immense number of aliens who every year seek the benefits of our citizenship. We have stretched out our hands to the oppressed of the world, and we hardly realize that Faneuil Hall is now the center of an Irish city, and that New York City with its million and a quarter Jews is practically a New Jerusalem. The ranks of our workers are crowded with these people, and we lose sight of the fact that the psychological moment to impress them with the value of our institutions is upon their first arrival.

We have committed ourselves to this policy, and must stand by it, notwithstanding the responsibility is so serious. We must believe in these people, we must trust them and we must educate them to our standards, or they will drag us down. They come to us saturated with the idea that socialism is a political panacea, and we must substitute a better plan for it. For socialism will not solve our problems, and does not try to do so, since it is only another embodiment of selfishness. We are prone to think too much of rights and too little of duties, and we must remember that the face behind the mask of socialism is too often that of anarchy.

Second, we must stand firmly for the unity and sanctity of our homes. The "divorce evil" as it has been called, is to my mind the greatest menace of the day to our institutions. Too many enter the relations of married life carelessly and thoughtless of consequences. The mere fact that 200 divorces were granted in this country for every court day of last year in the divorce courts is sufficient evidence of the need of uniform divorce laws which will be just to all, and prevent the desecration of a relation which should be as nearly sacred as any human institution can be. "Revolutions are not made with rose water," and we should sternly set our faces against this laxity which has been growing upon us.

We talk of conservation; the greatest need of to-day is the conservation of the family life. Much can be done by law, and should be done, but a vigorous and enlightened public opinion is better still, because it is more apt to be sincere, and our best public opinion has always had its strongest bulwark in the purity of the home.

Third, we must uphold the Constitution of the United States, and, as has been well said, the Ten Commandments. These represent our civil and moral rights, and are our charter. These societies commemorate a war which was in its essence a war against civil wrongs, and we can not surrender to any influence which will rob us of our heritage. The temple of our freedom is not yet complete, and its choicest decorations in the future as in the past, will be found in the noble lives of those men and women who have faced the dangers of our Republic and won. One of the essential things to be done at the present time is to make our politics respectable, and good home training is the best way to bring about this result.

That is what our flag means. That is what these badges mean, and if they ever mean anything else, then the work of your fathers and mine will have perished from the earth. Let these old standards be our standards, and having reached this decision, let us meet our crises in the same spirit as the great Luther met his, when he said: "Here I stand. Nothing else is possible. God help me."

Dr. Moses Greeley Parker, president general of the Sons of the American Revolution, after a brief introduction, spoke as follows:

Madam President General, Daughters of the American Revolution, and Guests: I deem it a distinguished honor to be invited to speak to you in this your Memorial Continental Hall this afternoon. Your society, composed of so many intelligent women, whose faces like flowers gladden us in our journey through life, I bring to you all the greetings of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. It is a great honor to be a Daughter of the American Revolution, and I congratulate you on the size of your society and on the work you have accomplished. It is a great thing to think of a society of over 90,000—I may say 95,000. I am sorry to have to say one word here. I do not say it by comparison. I simply say it for my own society. Your society, according to the figures, consists of 93,000. Your active members are nearly 72,000. The Sons of the American Revolution, of which I am the representative, consists of 24,000, and the active membership is about 13,000. I have already signed applications for my society for 1,000 new members this year.

You are educators. You have taught many the maiden names of their grandmothers, and of their great-grandmothers as well. You have marked historic spots, placed tablets, and purchased historic houses and endowed many of them. You have built this Memorial Hall, and you have made yourselves heard not only in its marble halls but throughout the world. You have done more; you have built your society up to nearly 95,000 members. Only think of a society of nearly 100,000 members. What a power for good. And your example, how great. It is much needed at this time. Large as our societies are, it is the duty of every member to do all he can to increase the membership of these societies. It is the duty of every mother to do all she can to interest the sons and daughters in the principles for which we stand, and see to it that they become members of our societies. In doing this, you will strengthen your society, you will widen your influence, and you will build up the bulwark of American manhood and womanhood that will protect us against the perils of the future.

In closing, let me again speak for the increase of our societies; that the deeds of the 400,000 soldiers, sailors, and patriots engaged in the Revolutionary War may be remembered and celebrated by a larger number of sons and daughters who stand for and are descended from honest, high-minded, patriotic men and women; men and women who thought for themselves and dared to act; men who did as they would be done by; determined men, not afraid to die; men who gave us our Constitution and laws that must be maintained. These were the forefathers of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

At the conclusion of Dr. Parker's remarks Mrs. Charles Warren Fairbanks, honorary president general, spoke extemporaneously, reviewing some of the events of her administration and calling for a united effort toward discharging the remaining indebtedness on Memorial Continental Hall.

Mr. William V. Cox, president of the Sons of the American Revolution in the District of Columbia, brought the following greetings from his society:

To the Twenty-first Congress, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution: The District of Columbia Society of the Sons of the American Revolution extends its greetings and well wishes for a most successful session of the Continental Congress of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

It commends your great society in its patriotic efforts to perpetuate the memory of those who achieved the independence of the American people.

It heartily congratulates your society on the successful achievements, under the leadership of Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, in securing and preserving historical documents, papers, and relics relating to the struggle for independence, the acquiring and appropriately marking scenes of that struggle and the graves of those who fought for liberty.

Above all, it congratulates the Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution on the completion of Continental Hall and the great success attained in fostering patriotism and promoting love of country and good citizenship, essential to the perpetuity of the American Republic.

At the close of these remarks the Rev. John T. Huddle pronounced the benediction, and congress took a recess until Tuesday morning.

Congress was called to order at 10.30 a. m. by the president general, who introduced the Rev. Wallace Radcliffe, who conducted the usual devotional service. The president general then made the following announcement:

Ladies, you are under the shadow of a terrible calamity that has visited many of the families of this country, and I think it is quite becoming that we offer some resolutions of condolence and sympathy for the people who are suffering all over this broad land of ours to-day in the sinking of the ship Titanic. I will appoint Mrs. Noble, chairman of the committee on resolutions, Miss Janet Richards, Mrs. Lawrence of Illinois, and Mrs. J. Morgan Smith to prepare these resolutions and present them to this congress.

Later the following resolution was presented by this committee and adopted by congress, and the flag on Memorial Hall ordered to be placed at half mast:

Whereas in the sinking of the White Star liner Titanic on the morning of April 15, 1912, with the consequent loss of more than 1,000 lives, the entire human family has suffered from the shock of the greatest marine disaster known to modern times; and

Whereas the profound sympathy of humanity goes out to the orphaned and bereaved in numberless homes made desolate: Therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, in congress assembled, put ourselves on record with feelings of heartfelt sympathy for the hundreds of men, women, and children who are to-day sitting in darkened homes with hearts crushed beneath this black pall of grief that has so suddenly overwhelmed them; and that we pray the God of all comfort that He will strengthen and sustain them under this appalling calamity.

The president general, as chairman of the national board of management, presented the following report:

Members of the Twenty-first Continental Congress: I have the honor to report that regular meetings of the national board of management have been held in the months of June, October, February, and April. Special meetings have been held in November, December, January, and March. At each of these meetings I have been present and presided, except at the special meetings in November and January, when unavoidably absent.

I beg to call your especial attention to action taken on three points: The appointment—on recommendation of the historian general—of a national committee on historical research, composed of each of the chapter historians of the society—a committee of which the historian general, Mrs. Bassett, is the chairman. The work proposed has been fully outlined in the report of the historian general, to be found in the March number of the American Monthly Magazine. This plan, if loyally adhered to, will result in the collection and formation of the most valuable and authentic genealogical and historical bureau of records on the continent, and this is to be the property of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution. Your chairman can not too urgently emphasize the importance of loyal adherence to this plan which the national board of management has indorsed and presents to you for your most cordial and hearty cooperation.

Your chairman would also respectfully ask your indorsement of her appointment of a national committee to be known as the committee on international peace arbitration.

The first work of this committee is to be in behalf of the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of peace among English-speaking peoples by the signing of the Treaty of Ghent. This committee does not deal with Government treaties, but is designed to foster, especially among the children and youth of the land, a sentiment opposed to the "organized murder" which Sir Gen. Baden-Powell characterizes as war.

I would also call your attention to the reorganization of our business affairs, in the interest of economy and efficiency. A plan has been adopted upon the merit system, with a needed readjustment of salaries, according to the value of the work done. With this end in view, a committee on salaries has been appointed—Mrs. Brayton, Michigan, vice president general, chairman—with the national officers employing clerks, and other ladies familiar with the working of the different offices, members of this committee. It has been a task that has required infinite patience, judgment, and tact—this readjustment of salaries, and the transfer of the entire business machinery of the society to the business office at the entrance of the building. Here all the business matters of the society are now transacted. Sufficient space has been secured by cutting—by order of the board and approval of the architect—a door into a small room leading out from the Missouri room, formerly known as the curator's room—now the business office.

This initial work being completed, we have the satisfaction of knowing that our business affairs are conducted on lines of Government service, and with the efficiency, system, and security of the banks of the city. That it has not been easy to accomplish these changes, goes without saying.

It was with genuine pleasure that the board, at its February meeting, gave the authority asked for by the Chicago chapter to incorporate, when necessary, for the purpose of building a million-dollar hotel for working women in Chicago. Of the amount necessary to be secured, Mr. La Verne Noyes, husband of our Illinois vice president general, has made the second subscription of $50,000.

Hard work has been done, and well done. "The little handful of corn sown upon the mountain top has shaken the forests of Lebanon."

Our building is not only entirely finished but splendidly furnished and equipped. Great committees are working zealously on crucial problems that confront them—problems you are familiar with. Gradual payment of the debt on our building is provided for; finances are in good shape; business machinery is in perfect running order.

It is with devout thankfulness we recognize the unseen hand that, through threatening breakers, has steered our stately ship into its desired haven.

THE AMERICAN AUDIT CO.,
By OTTO LUEBKERT,
Resident Vice President.

The historian general made an eloquent plea for systematic historical work. The following is an extract from her report:

Madam President General, national officers of the Daughters of the American Revolution, members of this congress, and my mother: I give a toast to history.

"All past days were what they must have been, and they could not have been better than they were. To-day is what it must be, and to-day and America could in no way be better than they are!"

From it is to it was is a change not merely in tense but in point of view, so that even the past of our grandparents refuses to be revived in its full content and color, however readily it may yield its form.

The process of making this Nation has not been the simple one of turning Jews, Irish, Germans, and Swedes into Yankees, though there are more Jews in New York than in Palestine, more Italians than in Rome, more foreigners than there are inhabitants in St. Louis.

Another changing condition—50 years ago 100 miles from Chicago was an unbroken prairie. To-day emigration is turning back and filling up places passed over, and we now begin to save at the spigot what we once wasted at the bung. We have the great National Conservation Committee in charge.

Again, we are rewriting our territorial geography. That word "uninhabitable" is passing into the dictionary of fools, for the greatest and swiftest battle ever fought with wild nature has turned the great American desert into the "Great bread basket" of the world.

The way States, empires, agricultural commonwealths are builded in this day is a new thing in history, and I make my appeal to you, Daughters, to-day for the sake of our country's future, for the sake of the coming generations who shall not be invaders or strangers but our own children's children, see to "Conservation of the sources of our American History."

For the price is still vigilance. An Indian reservation is to-day a disappearing anachronism. With the days of Indian diplomacy and Indian warriors has gone much that was picturesque, perhaps also some features of Indian art, Indian music, Indian imagination that we might have saved. Let us guard what history we have of this element of our Nation's past.

Second, the fast-disappearing log cabin of the pioneer days might still be preserved as at Whitewater, Wis., where one of these has been stored with old-time articles showing pioneer housekeeping in all its simplicity and effect—the big fireplace, the homespun rugs, counterpanes, trundle-beds, cane-bottom chairs, spinning wheel, and with lilac and "pinies" blooming outside.

If we as a society would be teachers by example of how to preserve records, we must not begin by having lapses in our own publication of Lineage Books. Numbers 2, 3, 4, and 5 are to-day entirely out of print.

We must be accurate in chapter office work if we are to contribute to the national prestige of our organization as a historical organization.

Did the originators of this society dream that we might so early in our years—for we are just 21—be roused to a sense of the important position we may occupy as the central bureau in this country of genealogical research, with a library fast becoming famous? Did they dream that we might be known as a great historical society? Those who were farsighted and wise in planning this organization placed a prospect before it as big as our conception of patriotism can embody.

I urge you to study American history by no academic discussion of mine of the value of history, but to give your attention to the very reason of our being a society. I present no theory or scheme to-day of how to proceed with our study; I direct my energy toward one thing. I strike for one result alone, and that is to awaken you to a consciousness of our society's responsibility to be the preservers and conservers of our national life history.

The assistant historian general reported on the compilation of the Smithsonian report as follows:

Madam President General and members Twenty-first Continental Congress: The fourteenth report of our society to the Smithsonian Institution contains reports from 650 chapters, or about two-thirds of the whole number. In the compilation of this report over 1,100 letters and blanks were sent out to the different chapter regents, as well as to all the State regents, and many hundreds of letters, either seeking or conveying information, were written during the year.

The proceedings of the Twentieth Congress were edited and arranged for publication, as were also the seven hundred and odd reports received from the chapters. Our national charter granted by the Congress of the United States requires this annual report to the Smithsonian Institution. It is an account of work accomplished, while the time, energy, and funds necessary to bring it about must be left to the imagination.

In the State of Massachusetts organizations known as charitable, benevolent, or educational are exempt from taxation on real estate, and it was on the strength of our Smithsonian report that the supreme court of Massachusetts not long since rendered a decision placing our society under the head of charitable, benevolent, and educational, as well as patriotic.

Charitable in our care of Real Daughters and in the help extended to many needing assistance; benevolent in our work among foreigners, our Spanish War work, and our interest in public schools and the welfare of our cities; educational in founding and increasing libraries, our historical research, the many scholarships provided, and our interest in the education of the Southern mountaineers.

Next year let us hope that each and every chapter will feel it a duty as well as a privilege to respond when the call comes for an account of work accomplished.

An extract from the report of the librarian general follows:

Madam President General and members of the National Congress: There is a room, in a secluded part of our building, presided over by one with a rare personality which always suggests help to perplexed humanity. This is our library, finally finished and furnished in a most up-to-date fashion by the Mary Washington Chapter of the District.

A recent and interesting gift is an admirable portrait of one of the signers, Thomas McKean, pronounced by our art committee of great artistic worth and probably a Stuart.

A most encouraging feature of the year's work is the growing interest and enthusiasm shown in the growth of State collections. The regent of South Carolina has requested each of her chapters to present one volume of genealogical and historical interest. The result will be at least 30 volumes. Already a number have responded. If other States would follow the initiative, the shelves of our library would soon be filled with valuable and interesting matter.

A gift which undoubtedly will inspire a splendid following and has filled us all with enthusiasm is the Emily Hendree Park memorial from Georgia. It consists of a collection of books for a section in the library of Memorial Continental Hall, to be surmounted by a bronze tablet with bas-relief portrait of Mrs. Park and an appropriate inscription. The collection will consist chiefly of books relating to Georgia, among them 26 volumes of the Georgia records, the compiling and publishing of which were largely due to the efforts of Mrs. Park while State regent, and a labor of love by that honored national officer.

Pennsylvania still leads in her collection of State historical works, having many shelves of valuable books, and a gift from one of her members of a certificate of 20 years' subscription to the Pennsylvania Historical Society. Rhode Island, Connecticut, and Virginia have the admirable custom of sending yearly contributions. Others—States, chapters, and individuals—are doing good work along the same lines.

A number of historical societies have presented or given in exchange their publications. Lack of space, not of appreciation, prevents a detailed list of the many chapters and members who from time to time send to our library important town and church records—many long out of print. The Baltimore chapter is covering a great field of work in this line.

At the afternoon session the president general presented her report as chairman of the Continental Hall committee, in which she suggested some fitting memorial to Caroline Scott Harrison, our first president general, and urged immediate action by Congress.

In connection with the subject of bonding Memorial Continental Hall the report stated: We were fortunate, at a great financial crisis in our history, to have at our head that courageous, farsighted, and great-hearted president general, Mrs. Donald McLean, who did not hesitate to bond our hall in order to raise money with which to build this unrivalled temple to patriotism and also to meet obligation already incurred.

A tablet, placed near the elevator, the gift of the Mary Bartlett Chapter, was dedicated at the conclusion of the report of the committee on Revolutionary relics. Mrs. Amos G. Draper, regent of the Mary Bartlett Chapter, Mrs. Dearborn, State regent of New Hampshire, and the Rev. George Washington Dame took part in the exercises, dedicating the tablet to the memory of Josiah Bartlett, signer of the Declaration of Independence, and of his descendant, Miss Ella Bartlett, whose generosity made the gift of the elevator possible.

The Connecticut daughters presented the bust of Chief Justice Oliver Ellsworth, in grateful appreciation of the faithful work of Sara Thomson Kinney, State regent for 10 years. The Saratoga chapter presented the portrait of Ellen Hardin Walworth, one of the three founders of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution.

The New Jersey daughters presented a chandelier forged from the chain and anchor of the frigate Augusta. Jersey Blue Chapter gave a book of traditions and the General Frelinghuysen Chapter an historic photograph holder.

The John Hancock Chapter, of Massachusetts, presented an ancient piece of tapestry, and the chapter regent, Mrs. Kellogg, gave a chair from the old Quincy house in Boston. Minute Men Chapter, Massachusetts, gave a desk once owned and used by John Hancock, first governor of Massachusetts. Mrs. Keim presented an ancient cross-bow or bow gun. Omaha daughters, a serving table for the banquet hall. Wyoming chapters, a mahogany case for the museum. Through the Baltimore chapter, Gen. A. Leo Knott, presented a portrait of his wife, an honored vice president general and founder of the Baltimore chapter. A painting of the "Bradley Flag" was presented with the following history of the flag, by Maria Gilbert Bradley, Haverhill, Mass.:

Madam President General and Daughters of the American Revolution and guests: The history of the Bradley flag is rich in its memories of the past from 1795 to 1818.

Gen. Stephen Rowe Bradley, of Westminster, Vt., was the first Senator from that State. He was a man of high character, a statesman of learning, of clear perceptions, a brilliant orator. He had the utmost courage of his convictions, and the highest sense of public duty.

In 1794 Senator Bradley, of Vermont, in a speech in Congress, said: "Kentucky and Vermont have been added to the Union, and they consider themselves of as much importance as the 13 original colonies and desire to be represented on the flag. I therefore move that the flag be 15 stars and 15 stripes.

This motion was carried, to take effect May 1, 1795.

This was the United States flag for 23 years, and was the flag used during the War of 1812.

Alabama Daughters gave a desk once owned and used by Vice President Rufus King. The chapters of Vermont presented a Tiffany memorial book. South Carolina contributed a collection of rare and valuable books for the library. General Francis Marion Chapter presented 2 volumes of autograph letters of Caroline Scott Harrison. Miss Alice Bristol gave a $1,000 scholarship at the Bristol School, Washington, D. C. An autograph copy of America and a chair for the banquet hall presented by the Old South Chapter, Massachusetts, as a memorial to Laura Wentworth Fowler. Baltimore Chapter gave a collection of Militia Records and the Maine Daughters gave the ceiling lamp from the battleship Maine. The Tidioute, Ruth Brewster, and John Hall Chapters each presented a chair for the banquet hall. Among other presentations were an antique table, a valuable cup, and a copy of the coat of arms of Laurence Washington, and a rubbing from his tomb at Sulgrave, in England.

At the morning session of the third day the chairman of the magazine committee reported the death during the year of Mrs. Elroy M. Avery, who filled the office of editor of the American Monthly Magazine for 12 years. The circulation of the magazine was shown to have increased two and one-half times while under the present management, the expense of publication having decreased accordingly. The editor of the magazine gave a brief outline of her plans for the coming year, and suggested that a stated sum be set aside for the publication of valuable records. The various lines of patriotic work undertaken by the society were covered by the following reports from different standing committees:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE TO PREVENT DESECRATION OF THE FLAG.

Madam President General, national officers, and delegates: I esteem it a great privilege to make my report to this distinguished gathering of daughters from all over this broad land upon a subject more or less familiar, the "Prevention of Desecration to the Flag," a love and veneration for which has been due in a vast degree to the patriotism aroused by our grand organization, the Daughters of the American Revolution. I am happy to state that 29 of our States—more than half—have enacted laws to protect the flag from desecration; on the honor roll are Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts,

Rhode Island, Connecticut, Vermont, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Nevada, California, and Montana; to them, in masculine vernacular, "I take off my hat," and offer congratulations to each of their representatives here present.

The States that have no flag law are Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Louisiana, Texas, Wyoming, Arizona, and New Mexico. To these are extended our deepest sympathy—"A fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind," and the hope that the near future holds brighter promises.

We are working earnestly in Tennessee to inspire the love and respect for the flag among the next generation—as is shown from the excellent report from one of my committee, Mrs. Lucy Henderson Horton, of Franklin, Williamson County, who tells that the flag has been placed in every public school, both white and negro, in the town and county, and a salute given always at dismissal of school. The same she reports from Paris, Henry County, adding that 100 flags had been given by the General William Russell Chapter, of that town, for the purpose. Another had been placed in the school at Jasper, in the mountains. All Daughters of the American Revolution chapters in the State have been requested to give the salute at all of their public functions. This is a most encouraging show of earnestness on the part of our Daughters of the American Revolution, and if we could get reports from more sections of our country like this, especially the remote districts where the youth are not familiar with patriotic demonstration and display of flags, it would be a great stride in the direction in which we are all striving. The training of the young in love of country and their flag, whose vestals we feel ourselves to be, is most important; but many of us, alas, can not wait till these embryo citizens and statesmen shall have developed as upholders of the honor of our nation. The vigorous, pushing present alone is ours to work in for this object.

Mrs. Hicks, regent of the Cumberland Chapter, the second oldest in the State, where there is no flag law, corrected by sheer force of will and determination the flagrant abuse of our flag, supporting on its lower edge an advertisement for a second-class matinee. If we but keep our eyes and ears open there may come many such opportunities for correction of abuses by moral, if not legal, influences.

When people of intelligence, breadth of thought, and strength of purpose come together in a cause like this, they are bound to accomplish their object, and we are happy to feel that this is one upon which there can be no difference of opinion. Of course, one of the most important designs is that the flag shall not be used as a trade-mark or for business advertisement. In a few instances, but inconsiderable ones, the argument may be effectively used upon some Congressman by his influential constituency that such a law would be inimical to their business interests—but that is one of the points which we must strive to meet and overcome by our persuasive principles, that the honor and dignity of our national insignia must not be infringed upon by any class of business interests. The brilliant array of our successes—the wonderful monuments of our work in this country in the last 20 years—might make us too confident in all our attempts, but the history of an accomplishment shows that it was unity of effort and steadiness of purpose toward the smallest as well as the greatest objective points that have crowned with success the long list of these years of endeavor.

Respectfully submitted.

MARTHA OVERTON DICKINSON,
Chairman of Committee to Prevent Desecration of the Flag.

Owing to the illness of the chairman of the conservation committee, Mrs. Pinchot, the report was given by the vice chairman:

ANNUAL REPORT, NATIONAL COMMITTEE ON CONSERVATION.

As a result of the interest shown by the Daughters of the American Revolution, the chairman of this committee was appointed on the advisory board of the Conservation Congress, while several other members have been appointed on other committees.

A number of new Daughters of the American Revolution State conservation committees have been formed this year, and gratifying reports have come from many members of the national committee and State chairmen, telling of various ways and means in which conservation principles are being applied in a concrete way to the particular problems of their States and communities.

In different parts of the country different members of our own and State committees have been carrying on an aggressive warfare, or to speak less militantly, an active campaign of education. Feeling that patriotism is a living, present-day issue, as well as a sacred memory, we have sought to use our influence to help create a healthy public sentiment concerning matters of public welfare, and thus stimulate to a higher activity that organ of the body politic, so often prone to paralysis, known as the civic conscience.

Conservation literature has been sent to many daughters, in response to requests for information, and through the active interest of some of our members and some of the State chairmen, many members in different parts of the country have been furnished with, and have had published in local newspapers, conservation matter bearing directly on questions concerning which it was of the utmost importance to help form an intelligent public opinion.

Conservation has been given a place on many chapter programs during the past year, some chapters having taken conservation as their subject for especial study throughout the year. Many have sought to stimulate interest in the subject among high school students by offering prizes for the best essay on conservation, while several State regents have taken a particular interest in impressing on their chapters the privilege, as well as the patriotic duty, of having some intelligent and active participation in this great work.

An important feature of the work carried on by the North Carolina daughters, under the able leadership of Mrs. Gregory, vice president general, has been the strong pressure that has been brought to bear on the legislature in an effort to secure the appointment of a forestry commission, and also fire wardens for the State, which up till now has almost criminally neglected the work of conserving its forests.

The interest of Ohio daughters in the conservation of natural resources has centered in forestry, numerous lectures on this subject having been given under Daughters of the American Revolution auspices. A keen interest in tree planting and tree culture has been stimulated, the London Chapter having planted over 100 trees during the past year.

Mississippi, through its chairman, has sent a most interesting report, telling of the campaign of education which is being carried on by each member of its State committee. Many copies of "The Land We Live In," as well as other conservation books, have been circulated and placed in the schools and libraries. Particular emphasis has been laid on the importance of having conservation taught in the public schools of the State.

A fine report comes from Mrs. Pinney and Mrs. Page, in Connecticut, telling of the havoc wrought in this State by the forest fires last year, and calling attention to the imperative need for legislation that will insure adequate protection of the forests as well as the protection and promotion of the navigation of streams. This report also gives interesting details as to the successful methods employed by the town of Derby, Conn., to insure the purity of its water supplies.

An Alabama member of our committee has undertaken a unique and interesting piece of conservation work by placing 20 pecan trees on the district school grounds near her own pecan plantation, and promising to care for these trees and see that they are cultivated until they begin to yield a regular income of from $15 to $25 a tree each season. This revenue is to be used in caring for and improving the school house and grounds.

Another member of this committee, the owner of a large tract of timber land, who is intensely alive to the importance of conservation, has set a splendid example in her neighborhood by employing a competent forester, who by a careful practice of tree dentistry, has given many valuable trees on her estate a new lease of life.

In this connection, I wish to submit, as documentary evidence of the inspiring interest Michigan daughters have shown in the subject of conservation, a part of the stirring report of the Michigan State conservation chairman, Miss Lydia Holmes, under whose most energetic and efficient leadership, Michigan is easily the banner conservation State this year.

Among other matters, we have been deeply interested this winter in such important conservation legislation as the Alaskan coal bill and the bill for the improvement of the public range—measures than which nothing could sound on the surface more abstract and impersonal, but which like practically all conservation measures, can be translated into terms of vital human welfare.

Efforts looking to the prevention of the pollution of streams, that fatal menace to the public health, have also enlisted our most earnest support.

We are all overwhelmed and horrified at news of the recent ocean disaster, with its appalling loss of life, but the number of lives lost on the Titanic does not constitute one tithe of the lives lost every year as a direct result of typhoid fever and other preventable diseases, which arise from the pollution of our water supplies. We do not know yet whether this appalling catastrophe in midocean could have been prevented, but we do know that this annual toll of death from typhoid would be immeasurably decreased if public sentiment could be aroused to the imperative need for intelligent and aggressive action to insure the purity of our water supplies. Here is an opportunity ready made, and close at hand, for the women of the country to render a real life-saving service to the Nation.

We wish to acknowledge especially the valuable aid we have received from the National Conservation Association. We in turn have felt it a privilege to cooperate with and give our moral backing and support to this association in its superb program of nation-wide conservation—a program which is constantly being worked out and brought to the attention of the country by most highly competent and disinterested experts.

As Daughters of the American Revolution I want to pledge our whole-hearted allegiance to those principles, as well as our contagious enthusiasm in this splendid crusade to conserve not only the vast natural resources of this country, on which depends our material prosperity, but those ideals of public as well as of private morality which we realize we must sacrifice for and defend and make to prevail if, in the words of the Athenians which we have taken as the motto of our conservation committee, "We would transmit our fatherland not only not less but greater and better than it was transmitted to us."

Respectfully submitted.

JULIA SCOTT VROOMAN,
(Mrs. Carl Vrooman),
Vice Chairman.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON REAL DAUGHTERS.

Madam President General, Daughters of the American Revolution: The work of your committee for the past year has consisted largely of creating an interest in and collecting a fund for the erection of a memorial to the Real Daughters, this fund to be raised by small offerings from every chapter, so that all parts of our great organization might feel that they had an interest in this memorial. To this end hundreds of letters and thousands of circulars were sent out to every State. Too much praise can not be given the members of your committee, whose loyalty and cooperation sustained the chairman through this trying ordeal.

Another matter which your committee has undertaken is to make an arrangement by which the grave of every Real Daughter may be provided with a suitable marker. At the last congress Mrs. Gilbert Montague Stark, regent of Saginaw Chapter, Saginaw, Mich., called the attention of your committee to this subject, and was requested to secure designs, estimates, etc., so that this congress might officially adopt a uniform design.

Not alone has your committee endeavored to preserve the memory of the Real Daughters in marble and in bronze, but also on the page of history. In 1900 the Joseph Habersham Chapter, of Georgia, published sketches of its 36 Real Daughters, with portraits of 15. They are to be found on the shelves of the library. About the same time the Connecticut Daughters of the American Revolution published a volume about their Real Daughters, and Massachusetts is now arranging a similar publication. Mrs. Nellis M. Rich, of Syracuse, N. Y., will soon publish a book entitled "Real Daughters of the State of New York," there having been 88 Real Daughters enrolled in that State. In the meantime, Miss Margaret B. Harvey, of Pennsylvania, a member of this committee, is getting out a little book which every one of you should have. It gives an authentic sketch of all the 721 who have been received into the society. Miss Harvey has been engaged on this patriotic work for some time, and has given to it the most scholarly comprehension.

A word to those chapters having no Real Daughters. A Real Daughter is the glory of a chapter. If you have not one, search every neighborhood, and every newspaper for very old women there. See if they are eligible. You are not only gaining a star member, but you are contributing valuable historical data in proving the service of her father. A word to those chapters having Real Daughters. If your daughters draw a pension from the National Society, do not stop at that. Remember her with an occasional visit, some flowers, fruit, a little shawl, a little picture, a cushion, a silver dollar. All this loving service may be rendered to the Real Daughter, and has a reflex action, coming back to the giver in added satisfaction.

Respectfully submitted.

LUCY COOK PEEL, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON NATIONAL UNIVERSITY.

Madam President General, members of the national board, and daughters: Some years since this committee adopted, as its especial work, the arranging for the presentation in Memorial Continental Hall of a course of historical lectures of such high caliber as would be considered worthy of delivery from endowed chairs of history in the famous universities of the country. It is intended that such lectures shall deal primarily with American history, and thus prove peculiarly adapted to the efforts of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

A fund of $1,000, accumulated through exterior patriotic channels, was devoted to forming the nucleus of a sum necessary for the defrayal of expenses incidental to the presentment of the lectures; this $1,000 was given by voluntary contributions of several hundred dollars from members of the society, Daughters of the American Revolution; the entire fund now on deposit in the care of the treasurer general, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution.

It is hoped that ere another year passes by the committee will feel fully justified in inaugurating its practical work, and that an historian of national repute shall deliver, in our own hall, such lecture or lectures as would dignify the lecture room of any one of the leading universities of the Nation.

MARY D. PATTON, Chairman.

REPORT OF FRANCO-AMERICAN COMMITTEE.

Madam President General, members of the congress: It is an honor which I greatly appreciate to present to-day to this congress the report as chairman of the Franco-American committee, telling of the many interesting events marking the interchange of courtesies as between the two great nations, sister Republics—France and the United States of America—who have aided and strengthened each other in the bonds of loyal support and faithful adherence to those principles of good government for the uplift of the people that belong to the republican form of government adopted by them for the administration of justice and to promulgate among the people just and righteous laws.

The interchange of civilities as between our armies was illustrated at the maneuvers both in France and in Switzerland, where the officers as commissioners from our Government to these foreign Governments were the recipients of every courtesy and consideration, and were entertained by leading officials.

The recently negotiated treaties between the United States and France have been the subject of deepest interest to all earnest advocates of the world's peace movement. With this movement the chairman of your committee has been closely identified, having been for two successive years a delegate to the international peace and arbitration congresses in Europe and this country, representing several important national, State, and civic organizations, and is a member of the national committee for the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of peace among English-speaking peoples, and a member of the National Daughters of the American Revolution committee on international peace and arbitration.

In regard to the Franco-American relations of the past year, incidents have not been numerous, but those that have taken place have served to show to all nations and people the mutual admiration and friendship of the two great Republics.

There was a convention in Paris among a number of nations, including France and America, to devise a means for the suppression of phonographic literature.

There was a celebration at Saint-Die in memory of the Frenchman of that village who, 400 years ago, first gave the name America to our continent.

Your chairman wishes to state that in the work of this committee the national society has not been called upon to defray a single item of expense. The Franco-American fund is the surplus left from contributions for the Lafayette statue and is to be used for placing a wreath upon the statue of Lafayette in Paris or the grave in Picpus Cemetery, as it was contributed for that purpose. The chairman had the privilege of being present at the ceremonies held at the grave of Lafayette in Picpus Cemetery, Paris, France, representing our society and the women of America, by giving an address and placing flowers upon the grave of the great friend of America—Lafayette.

Respectfully submitted.

KATHERINE PRATT HORTON, Chairman.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON PRESERVATION OF HISTORIC SPOTS.

Madam President General and members of the Twenty-first Continental Congress: It is my great privilege to present to you the annual report of this most important committee, "The Preservation of Historic Spots."

May I beg of every Daughter of the American Revolution earnest cooperation in the endeavor to arouse increased interest in this vital line of work.

Of great moment to all of us is the part of our patriotic creed which reads:

The objects of this society are:

To perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence by the acquisition and protection of historic spots and the erection of monuments, by the encouragement of historical research in relation to the Revolution, and the publication of its results.

As several inquiries have come to this committee relating to the regular markers furnished by the Government, and although this information has been given by the chairman of this committee in previous years, it may be well to repeat that upon application to the Quartermaster General, United States Army, headstones will be furnished for unmarked graves of soldiers, sailors, and marines who served in the State militia or the Army or Navy of the United States during any war or insurrection (including the Revolution), whether regular or volunteer, and whether they died in the service or since their muster out or discharge therefrom. Headstones will be furnished also for unmarked graves of Army nurses who had regular or volunteer commissions as such. These headstones are of the best American white marble, 39 inches long, 12 inches wide, and 4 inches thick, and are sent prepaid with the name of the soldier thereon.

The chairman of this committee has written 256 letters. She has found the members of this committee most interested in the work and quickly responsive to any suggestion. It being impossible to call a meeting of this committee early in the year on account of the great distances apart of its members, it was thought wise to form subcommittees, each subcommittee being composed of women living near each other. The chairmen were as follows:

Mrs. Delight Keller, New York, who is also vice chairman of this committee; Mrs. Benjamin Purcell, Virginia; Mrs. Egbert Jones, Mississippi; Mrs. Corra Bacon Foster, District of Columbia; Mrs. Frank B. Orr, Illinois; and Miss Annie Head, Massachusetts.

Enthusiastic reports have come from different States interested in the ocean-to-ocean highway. Several historic spots have already been marked. Let us make this work a national effort. Mrs. Van Brunt, a member of this committee and chairman of the Sante Fe Trail committee Kansas City Chapter, reports that Gov. Hadley, of Missouri, has released the State appropriation of $3,000. Miss Gentry, a member of this committee and vice chairman of the Sante Fe Trail, will tell of the work accomplished by the different States later.

Mrs. LUTHER DERWENT.

REPORT OF NATIONAL COMMITTEE ON PATRIOTIC EDUCATION.

For several years the increasing interest of this society in educational matters has been marked, and it is now seven years since the first national committee on patriotic education was appointed.

Under the direction of this committee interest in history has been awakened and patriotism developed through cooperation with public schools, playgrounds, social centers, and libraries.

Our chapters have assisted materially in reducing the annual high death rate, due to our hitherto insane manner of celebrating the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. In our small towns and rural districts our members have planned the celebration of Independence Day, so that talks on history and stories of our Revolutionary heroes and heroines have been included in the program of feast and fund, reunion and recreation, for through the story our history has been taught in all ages. In our large cities and towns the chapters have petitioned the municipal authorities to enact or enforce ordinances safeguarding life and property from the destructive elements used in the celebration of Independence Day, and have in many places, through organized effort, transformed a day of horror to one of joy and patriotism.

The efforts of the American Flag Association, the Grand Army of the Republic, the Sons of the American Revolution, and of this society in defense of the flag have been rewarded not only by the passage of laws by a great majority of our States, safeguarding our flag against commercial desecration and desecration due to our carelessness and thoughtlessness as a nation, but by the enforcement of these laws in our several States. With the enactment of these laws by so many States has come the hope of a Federal law to prevent and punish the desecration of the flag of the United States.

Interest in the education of the children of our southern mountaineers has rapidly increased, the total sum contributed for this purpose, through the treasurer general of this society, during the past year was $4,546.49, but the value of the interest aroused in these children of our country, growing up in regions far removed from educational centers, can not be measured.

The interest of this society in the multitudes of foreigners streaming into our country is nation wide, and through the establishment of libraries, playgrounds, social centers, reading rooms, sewing classes, night schools for adults, and the publication of instructive literature, our society is doing its share in the making of Americans.

The interest of our society in the efforts made to abolish child labor and in the protection of the youthful wage earner is unabated. In company with those of many other organizations, petition after petition was sent to Senators and Representatives pleading for the enactment of Senate bill No. 252—the Borah bill, in cold technical terms of modern legislation, the Borah bill, Senate No. 252. But what did bill 252 contain? "Life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" granted to the child of our country born beneath the Star-Spangled Banner, and to those coming to its sheltering fold from other lands.

Our cooperation has been given to the public schools and libraries of our country, our chapters giving prizes for essays and for standing in the study of United States history. Lectures have been given and story-telling house established. But do we know any more to-day about our public-school system, its training, its results, its efficiency, or its inefficiency than we did last year? When we said to you "* * * there must be something radically wrong with the system of public education if that system, which we know is being copied by other nations, does not give every child a chance—and we suggested to you our public-school system as a subject for study, for while we do know that in the year 1909-10 an army of 250,000 boys and girls, about 14½ years old, marched from the city public schools of America proudly bearing the evidence of having completed successfully the eight years of study—do we know—and we quote from the report prepared by Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick and Dr. Leonard P. Ayres for the Russell Sage foundation, which included the intensive study of the records of 40,000 children in New York City and the extensive study of the records of over 2,000,000 children in 80 cities—that during that same period there dropped from the ranks another army of 250,000 children who had failed of graduation. They were of about equal age and had spent about the same length of time in school as their more fortunate schoolmates. The larger fraction of these 250,000 educational failures had completed only six of the eight years in the course of study." Can not we aid our country through knowledge gained of our public schools? Let us know ourselves whether they have good, clean, sanitary, and safe conditions in their school hours. Give them pure, innocent play and provide places of recreation for them, which will.

develop, not retard, their mental and moral, as well as their physical growth. Let us be sure that the citizens of to-morrow will be worthy of the land and of the independence achieved by our ancestors.

Give every child a chance, give every child adequate protection in his pursuit of happiness, for do not we "hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness"?

Display the American flag, wave it in the breeze, but we must not let our patriotism end with the draping of a few yards of red, white, and blue bunting across our porch and around our pillars on the 14th day of June and on the 4th day of July. We must not think we are patriotic because we eat red, white, and blue ice cream and decorate ourselves with cherries and hatchets on the 22d day of February. In our chapter work let us be true to the Declaration of Independence and to the injunction of Washington in his farewell address to the American people, which we have made a part of the Constitution of our society.

Respectfully submitted.

EDITH DARLINGTON AMMON, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE WELFARE OF WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

Madam President General and delegates in the Twenty-first Continental Congress, National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution: Ladies, this committee represents the process of evolution. It is the former child labor committee renamed by our president general, Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, who felt that the work should include, by name, women as well as children.

Securing legislation for the benefit of women and children has formed a large part of the work of this committee in the past and will form a large part in the future.

The following legislation has been secured in many States through the efforts of this committee:

Laws regulating child labor; age of children employed, hours of labor, and immunity from danger.

Juvenile court laws; including the adult delinquency act protecting wife and children from desertion by father.

Compulsory education laws.

Special schools for tubercular children.

Anticigarette laws.

Night messenger laws.

In Ohio a law establishing a woman's reformatory.

Legislation is needed for children of the stage. Something has been accomplished along this line, but much remains to be done.

Medical inspection in the public schools has been adopted by some States but not in all. This work must grow. A sound mind demands a sound body.

The work of this committee as a whole may be broadly characterized by the word protection. Protection in three forms: By preventing the wholesale maiming of children; by the knowledge, scientifically classified, of the conditions under which children of the delinquent class exist; by an effort to maintain the sacred character of the marriage relation.

For the past five years there has been agitation for the establishment of a Federal children's bureau. Such a bureau would classify and coordinate all facts concerning children of the dependent and delinquent class. It would give birth rate and death rate, illegitimacy, orphanage, abandonment by one or both parents; it would give juvenile delinquency, cause and effect, and the operation of the juvenile court; it would give the facts in the child labor, the number of children employed, and their ages, the kind of employment, dangerous or merely wearing, the accidents to which working children are liable, and the legislation in the various States on child labor; it would give the diseases of children and the results of remedial efforts; and, finally, it would give the scope and results of philanthropic efforts in their behalf.

Can anyone doubt the value of such a source of information?

MARY ANDERSON ORTON,
(Mrs. EDWARD ORTON, Jr.)

REPORT OF THE INTERCHANGEABLE BUREAU, LECTURES AND SLIDES.

Madam President General, officers and members of the Twenty-first Continental Congress: The work of this committee has, the members believe, placed this particular branch of patriotic education on a firm foundation; it now remains to build so well that the stronghold may be held for many, many years, and that it may be said of us:

“Scattered the builders were and few,
Yet they builded better than they knew.”

The lectures comprise 14 different subjects, with 18 sets of slides, the number of slides is 1,392. There are 25 slides as a nucleus for “Historic New Jersey,” 8 for Continental Hall, and 21 slides purchased from the Government toward a lecture on “Our Waterways and the Conservation of Soil.” These, with some miscellaneous slides, give a total of 1,500 slides valued at $1,500.

Twenty States have used the lectures this past year as follows: Arkansas, at Helena; Colorado, the Denver and Colorado Chapters, at Denver, and the chapter at Pueblo; Florida, Jacksonville; Georgia, Marietta, Atlanta, and Cartersville; Illinois, Galesburg and Quincy; Indiana, Fort Wayne; Iowa, Des Moines and Burlington, and a set shipped to Dubuque; Louisiana, New Orleans; Massachusetts, Lakeville and Greenfield; Michigan, Escanaba and Ann Arbor; Missouri, St. Louis by the Colonial Dames and Daughters of the American Revolution, at St. Joseph by the Daughters of the American Revolution; Nebraska, Omaha and Hastings; New Jersey, Atlantic City and Boundbrook; New York, Syracuse, Matteawan, Gouverneur, Walton, Huntington (L. I.), and Newburgh; Ohio, at Toledo, Fort Industry and Ursula Wolcott Chapters, Sandusky and Painesville; Pennsylvania, Philipsburg and Canton; Texas, Dallas; Virginia, Orange; Vermont, Bellows Falls; Wisconsin, Milwaukee, Columbus, and La Crosse.

“Our Flag” for children was purchased by subscriptions from Miss Harnit, of Ohio; Miss Fairfax, of Virginia; Miss Mecum, of New Jersey; and Mrs. Henry S. Bowron. The second set of Historical Spots was supplied by Mrs. Bowron, and Miss Mecum, of New Jersey, furnished the sum required to color the 25 slides from New Jersey.

This set of 25, spoken of as a nucleus to a set of “Historic New Jersey” slides, is a fine memorial to Miss Mecum, always a member of this committee deeply interested. She conceived the idea of adding to the eight slides in “Historic Spots” and having a lecture for use in the New Jersey schools. She wrote a number of the chapters in New Jersey, secured a promise of 25 slides, and donated the funds for coloring this number, anticipating arousing interest enough to secure 50 more. Alas, she passed away before her task was completed.

It is now the hope of the chairman to secure some one for the committee from New Jersey who will continue this work. The chairman has presented the idea to members of the committee in other colonial States, and is sure the work will appeal to all, for what better means have we of teaching history.

Another idea waiting to be developed is a collection of slides showing the work of the daughters in restoration, preservation, and presentation of memorials.

Italian and Polish lectures of a higher class are desired. The simpler lectures, as translations are costly, have been used, but it seems necessary to have translations for adults.

The Polish lecture given in Greenfield, Mass., brought out 90 adults. At the close the women promised to attend other meetings for instruction in English and house-keeping.

Matteawan, N. Y., has an Italian colony and one lecture has been given there, while at Syracuse, N. Y., both Polish and Italian have been used. The Polish lecture drew an audience of over 400, more than half children, while an Italian lecture was followed by a request from four young Italians to form an American-Italian society that will help to promote the work.

The New Connecticut Chapter, Painesville, Ohio, has been the first to set an example for July 4. The pictures, "Our Flag," were shown in the park on the evening of July 4. A fine audience attended. The chapter gave the lecture at Fairport Harbor and at Storr & Harrison's nursery to fine audiences of foreigners and children.

There is a new field of romance and history before us in the stories of the "Old Trails." North, south, east, and west the pioneers blazed the way. Many of these trails united to form continued highways across the continent. To turn these trails into good roads is the problem. Of course all sorts of plans have been presented to the United States Government and to the State legislature. The Missouri daughters are not willing to linger by the way, if help can be given, and so a committee on good roads has been formed and cooperation asked in various ways from daughters in far-off and near-by States to help the cause. A bill has been presented to this effect, and having had in mind the stories of this country which may be told the children, as we wander over the old trails, it is hoped to add at least two lectures this coming year and to scour the plains with the "Pony Express" or to glide with the Indians over the Natchez Trace way down in Mississippi. To accompany Washington from Williamsburg over Braddock's route as a boy and to go with him as President of the United States from New York to Philadelphia and on to Washington, D. C.

By the way, we will learn lessons of the forests and streams that will bring our lovely forestry lectures into more general use. First we must see, then we will love, and to love nature brings out the best that is in us.

We are a society bound together to do a nation-wide work—to teach patriotism. The growth of this work may be likened to that of the rose, plenty of thorns always in evidence, but softened by the exquisite green leaves. Lo! One day a bud appears, wrapped in its coat of green, all wet with the dew of night; it waits the touch of dawn to warm it into life; as the sun grows stronger, behold the flower of promise, for

"The rose has kissed the dawning,
And waked to glory in the sun."

Respectfully submitted.

ELIZABETH M. BOWRON, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON CHILDREN OF THE REPUBLIC.

Madam President General, national officers, and daughters of the Twenty-first Continental Congress: You are all more or less familiar with the object of the Children of the Republic movement—"to instill patriotic ideas, reverence of our flag, and pride of country" into the minds of uncared-for boys and girls is the principal rule that each club directress seeks to follow. I believe the founder, the lamented Mrs. Murphy, of Ohio, had conspicuously in mind the "foreign-born children and those born of foreigners" in the United States. To teach them the history of our splendid Nation, to train them in the paths of patriotism, to instruct them as to a proper understanding of citizenship were fundamental tenets of her plan of work. In many States, however, we find very few foreigners and they are hard to reach. They appear to be suspicious of our efforts, and their pastors or priests oftentimes place obstacles in the way of this club work, consequently the good and helpful intention of the daughters is hampered.

But there are so many in the United States of Anglo-Saxon parentage who need to be trained and taught the way to sturdy, respectable manhood and helped to an understanding of obedience to rules, law, and order. Especially is this true of the Southern States and of many of the Western States, where the foreign element is very small. The question is how to reach them and achieve the desired result.

Everybody who has lived in the South knows how hard and wearing it is to form clubs or classes amongst the poorer white people; and yet these boys from this very part of our population need our training. The question is how to gain and hold them.

Texas has two clubs. One is located in the country, out from Temple, and the members are all Bohemians. Betty Martin Chapter hopes great results from the work being done at this place.

The State chairman of Tennessee does not record any new clubs. The Andrew Jackson Club, under the care of Cumberland Chapter, Nashville, is the only flourishing one. This chapter has been fortunate in its directress.

Louisiana has two clubs. The one in New Orleans is not strong. "A constantly moving membership" is the cause. Shreveport Daughters seem quite interested in their Children of the Republic work. The "boys of this year are nearly all new material," and are gathered from the homes of railroad employees.

California has one club, located at Los Angeles.

Indiana has been industrious, one new club has been added to the three reported at last Congress and the old ones carefully cared for. One of these clubs has a very unusual name, Gen. John Peter Clever Shanks, who was one of Portland's favorite sons. The State chairman concludes her remarks with the following words: "Last year our State committee made a complete canvass of the State. Every chapter was urged to take up this form of work. This year our efforts have been confined to those chapters that have shown an interest in the Children of the Republic." Four cities are represented in Indiana—Indianapolis, Portland, Fowler and Rochester.

The State directress of Wisconsin tells of two wide-awake clubs in Milwaukee, both just a year old. The patriots feel very elated over their growth during the past 12 months, from a membership of 11 they now have a roll call of 37. These boys are all foreigners, principally Russian Jews. The Milwaukee Chapter takes much interest in these "Patriots and the Liberty Boys of 1776;" but the State directress is not "enthusiastic over the outlook in the State."

The Orange Mountain Chapter, Orange, N. J., is carrying on a unique form of Children of the Republic effort. The Antituberculosis League cares for a day camp, where children in the the incipient stages are kept in the open air, fed and taught. The Orange Mountain Chapter pays the instructor in manual training and uses such opportunities as are possible to teach love of country and preparation for citizenship. Last November they presented the camp with a beautiful flag.

The States that have been most active in Children of the Republic work are Ohio, Illinois, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Michigan, and Iowa. In Ohio the Children of the Republic movement seems to have taken firm hold on the daughters. There are now 20 clubs scattered from the northern to the southern boundaries of the State. Cincinnati claims seven of these and very successful work has been accomplished this past year. Cleveland comes second with three. The club at King's Mills is under an eclipse, due to the Boy Scout movement, and the moving picture shows. The directness of this club began her work four years ago and she is bravely trying to win back her wandering members. The two new clubs in Ohio are "The Liberty Bell," formed February 17, 1912, by Mrs. J. E. Wellirer, at Dayton; it now has a membership of 21, including Hungarians, Poles, Germans, Jews, and Roumanians, Mrs. Wellirer is most ambitious and is having the boys drilled by a military captain, with a view to their marching in the parade on Memorial Day. Her chapter has ordered caps, buttons, bands and a flag—the full equipment.

The opening of the great Diamond Alkali Plant at Fairport, a harbor, near Painesville, brought into that place a number of foreign laborers. The New Connecticut Chapter appointed Rev. Abbie May Williams to form a club at Fairport. She first gained the good will of the Hungarian pastor, then the boys and "The Benjamin Franklin Club," with a charter membership of 21 boys, was organized, February 5, 1912. The Rev. Abbie May Williams will be assisted as directress by her husband, who also is a preacher and has a church at Fairport.

Chicago, Ill., has 12 active clubs, and 2 which have met irregularly for lack of a directress. A committee of nine ladies, with the help of three good women who are not daughters, have carried on this great work. Many of the children in these clubs come from homes where English is not spoken and they pick up our language on the streets. Upon the occasion of the celebration of Lincoln's Birthday, 300 children from the Children of the Republic clubs sat upon the platform (just behind the veterans) in Orchestra Hall, where the entertainment was given.

The committee sees an opening for a night club for boys, who are employed through the day, but they feel that the help of a man is necessary for this work, and they are on the lookout for a trusty, capable leader. Springfield has a club, the "George Rogers Clark," whose directress opens her own home for the weekly meetings. She and the boys defray all expenses. Galesburg, the "Capt. James Lawrence," has done excellent work. Pittsburgh, Pa., has six splendid Children of the Republic clubs. Iowa has eight clubs and the ninth is soon to be formed in Boone under the auspices of De Shone Chapter. Abigail Adams Chapter has three clubs, one being composed of Des Moines newsboys.

Boston, Mass., "has 14 Children of the Republic clubs under Mrs. Edward Clark's direction."

The most enthusiastic letters I received came from Michigan. This State has now 11 clubs, 5 organized during the present year. One is at Kalamazoo, one at Detroit, one at Cadillac and two at Marshall.

This March, 1912, Maine daughters contributed $50 as a nucleus to Opportunity Farm, near Gloucester. This will be a small home where boys will be given vocational training, and will undoubtedly be contributed to by every chapter in the State. This is "boys" work, though not strictly Children of the Republic. The Lewiston Chapter has five boys at this farm now.

The Boy Scout movement is popular in Vermont, and the State regent writes "that the Children of the Republic has not gone forward."

The District of Columbia has organized two clubs during the year. I have no report from the States of New York, Missouri, Kansas, Georgia, and Kentucky.

Twenty States report "No Children of the Republic clubs organized; we have tried without success coming our way."

During the current year, from reports received to April 10, I count an increase of 13 clubs—Michigan, 5; Ohio, 2; Pittsburgh, Pa., 3; Indiana, 1; the District, 2.

I feel that the Children of the Republic clubs are finely suited for boys under and up to 12 years of age, and we should gather in as many of them as possible. Conservation of the nation's best asset—her children—is surely the noblest, sanest, surest of results, of any work we can engage in; so let us go forward to win them and help them—it does not matter the way, so that it is good and the child, through us, grows true and brave.

Mrs. MARGARET L. H. HICKS,
Acting Chairman.

The report on the Chalkley manuscripts was submitted by the expert engaged to examine them; after some discussion the following motion was made and unanimously adopted:

That the Chalkley manuscripts, the corrected pages, and the copies thereof be turned over to Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood, honorary vice president general, as a gift outright.

The publication, if made, must be in the name of Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood.

The national society to transfer all rights in and all control over said records.

The Chalkley manuscripts, if published must be without the use of the name or influence in their sale, or by the authority in any way implied of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution.

MARY COOLEY BASSETT.

At the evening session of Friday, April 19, congress listened to an address by Miss Henry, on the Mountain People of the South; also remarks by Mr. John Foster Carr, of Connecticut, and by Senator Borah, of Idaho. The following resolution, addressed to the President of the United States, was offered by the president general:

Whereas in His inscrutable providence Almighty God has seen fit to take from our midst Maj. Archibald W. Butt, United States Army, who last year, and the year before, escorted the President of the United States to this platform to open our Continental Congress, and whose splendid martial figure has so long been one of the distinguishing features of the social and official life of the National Capital; and Whereas this brave soldier and chivalric gentleman, in the recent tragedy of the Titanic, laid down his life to save the lives of the helpless women and children on that ill-fated vessel;

Resolved, That we, the Daughters of the American Revolution, in congress assembled, grateful for this touching proof that in our supposedly materialistic age chivalry has not lost its flower, desire to lay our laurel wreath of admiration and love upon the fathomless grave of this modern knight errant and true patriot;

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the President of the United States, to whom this tragic death comes as a poignant, personal loss.

Several other resolutions bearing upon matters of public importance were adopted during the session of Congress, one of which was as follows:

Resolved, That this Twenty-first Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution indorse Senate bill No. 3814, providing for the construction of a memorial and mortuary chapel in the Arlington National Cemetery, and we urge upon the Military Committee the necessity for and the desirability of the completion of this building at an early date.

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the president general to present these resolutions to the proper committees of the Senate and House of Representatives.

This resolution was also adopted:

Resolved by the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution in its Twenty-first Congress assembled, That we indorse and recommend the passage of House resolution No. 4686, Sixty-second Congress, first session, for the preservation of the Doric columns taken from the east side of the Treasury Department building and their erection in the form of a colonnade, stadium, or amphitheater, or a Greek ruin effect for the ornamentation of Potomac Park; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the chairman of the House and Senate Committees on the District of Columbia.

And the following:

Whereas it has been reported that the vestry of St. Anne's Parish, at Annapolis, Md., intends to remove the old graves from the old graveyard around the church building; and

Whereas these old graves and said graveyard stand as monuments to and reminders of colonial life, and are of great historic interest and value; and Whereas the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution desires to preserve intact all reminders of that formative period in the life of our country, and especially those in the city of Annapolis, the heart of the Revolution; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution respectfully protest against the removal of said graves, and request that said graveyard be allowed to remain in its present condition; and further, that the corresponding secretary general of the Daughters of the American Revolution be requested to transmit a copy of these resolutions to the vestry of said parish.

Special memorial resolutions were offered on the death of Mrs. J. Pembroke Thom, State regent of Maryland, Mrs. Elroy M. Avery, editor of the American Monthly Magazine, Mrs. M. A. Ballinger, and the following brief account of the life and death of Clara Barton:

We have lost from our midst one of our most distinguished daughters, one of the incorporators of our society, Clara Barton.

Miss Clara Barton, founder of the American National Red Cross Association, died at her home at Glen Echo Friday morning, April 12, 1912. Clara Barton was born in Worcester County, Mass., on Christmas Day, 1821, her parents being Capt. Stephen Barton and Sallie Stone Barton. She was the fifth child of her parents. Her father, Capt. Stephen Barton, was with "Mad Anthony" Wayne in all of his campaigns, and Miss Barton often delighted her friends with reminiscences of stories of her father, Capt. Barton, told her of his experiences during those wild campaigns, as well as of the hardly less exciting political campaigns of the day.

Miss Barton, as was said of Lincoln, now belongs to the ages. She was probably the most famous woman of the last century, known in three wars as the angel of the battle field. From the battle fields of the Civil War she was called to the battle field of the Franco-Prussian War, where she performed such signal service for the suffering soldiers on both sides that she was decorated by both France and Germany, receiving the iron cross of Germany. The Duchess of Baden-Baden decorated her personally. In Miss Barton's collection of decorations 12 nations are represented.

Miss Barton's funeral occurred at Glen Echo, Md., Sunday, April 14. Her casket was covered with the American flag, placed upon her casket by her close personal friend, Mrs. Isabel Worrell Ball, and the casket heaped with flowers from the patriotic organizations of the country. Her pallbearers were veterans of the Civil War, for whom she had done so much. They were Past Senior Vice Commander in Chief John McElroy and Past Department Commanders S. E. Faunce, George C. Ross, J. D. Bloodgood, Newton Perree, and J. S. Walker. Interment was in Oxford, Mass., where, by her own request, she sleeps by the side of her father, the Revolutionary soldier.

CUBA.

Havana Chapter, of Habana, commemorated the anniversary of the explosion of the U. S. battleship Maine on February 15, 1898, by patriotic pilgrimages, attended by the chapter and American and Cuban officials, every year until the wreck was removed from the harbor. A bronze tablet—a duplicate of which will be placed on the mast of the Maine, now in Arlington—was placed on the wreck with the following inscription:

In memory of those who perished by the explosion
of the U. S. Battleship Maine
In the harbor of Havana, Cuba
February 15th, 1898.

Erected by the Havana Chapter D. A. R.
1910.

From the formation of the chapter these anniversary ceremonies were carried out every year. Bishop Knight conducted the services, which were attended by American and Cuban officials, in addition to members of the chapter. When the final service was held and the wreck taken out of the harbor and sunk, the chapter, with the representatives of the two countries, accompanied the Maine to its final resting place. The chapter offered a prize to the Cathedral School for the best essay on Washington.

DELAWARE.

There are five chapters in the State, with a total membership of 187, an increase of 8 during the past year.

Cooch's Chapter, of Coochs Bridge, celebrated on September 3, 1912, the one hundred and thirty-fifth anniversary of the first use of our national flag in battle. The flag, as approved by Congress, was first carried in the Battle of Coochs Bridge, September 3, 1777. This event is celebrated each year by the chapter with appropriate exercises.

Elizabeth Cook Chapter, of Smyrna, has placed a tablet in Belmont Hall in honor of the sentinel on the watch tower, wounded by the British when Belmont Hall was the home of Gov. Thomas Collins, who was also brigadier general during the Revolution.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Army and Navy Chapter, of Washington, has completed, during the past year, the payment of the bronze bas-relief placed by the chapter in Continental Hall. It has reported to Congress the great need of a mortuary chapel at Arlington, and urged consideration of the subject.

Captain Molly Pitcher Chapter, of Washington, has offered first and second prizes at the night school for foreigners for improvement in penmanship, contributed $50 scholarship to a school for mountain whites, given $75 for furniture, and $57.46 in cash to Continental Hall.

Colonel John Donelson Chapter, of Washington, has contributed to a mountain school in east Tennessee.

Columbia Chapter, of Washington, has expended $7 in patriotic work, contributed $2 to the national committee on historic spots, $5 to the Mary Desha memorial, $5 to the Young Women's Christian Association building fund, and decorated with a wreath the grave of John Paul Jones on Memorial Day. The chapter has succeeded in having several objectionable films removed from a moving picture show, has assisted in local charity, and has given $5 to Continental Hall.

Continental Chapter, of Washington, has contributed $30 to the Downing Industrial School, Alabama, $10 scholarship and a prize for the best historical essay in the Lees McRai School, North Carolina, contributed to the Mary Desha memorial, the committee on historic spots, and the preservation of old records. It has donated several valuable relics and $17 to Continental Hall.

Continental Dames Chapter, of Washington, has contributed to the Berry School and assisted in local charitable work.

William W. Burrows, lieutenant colonel, United States Marine Corps.

Stephen Cassin, commodore, United States Navy. 6.1783

Joseph Carleton.

John A. Davis, lieutenant, United States Navy.

Little John Borden Chapter, of Washington, took for its share of the District daughters' Memorial Day work the decoration of the graves of Revolutionary soldiers at Arlington.

Livingston Manor Chapter, of Washington, contributed to the night school for foreigners, to the building fund of the Young Women's Christian Association. It gave a large flag for the outside of Continental Hall, and a chair for the banquet hall. It also located the grave of a soldier of the Revolution:

Matthew Wright, 1748-1838, buried in Shoshequin, Pa.

Louisa Adams Chapter, of Washington, has contributed $15 to Continental Hall.

Magruder Chapter, of Washington, has contributed Southern Industrial Educational Association memorial to Rev. Ivan Green. It has given $5 to Continental Hall, and $5 for Continental Hall certificates. It located the grave of Nathaniel Magruder, died 1785, buried in family cemetery at Dunblane, judge of elections "by authority of the people only," July 23, 1776, Prince Georges County, Md.

Major L'Enfant Chapter, of Washington, was organized April 7, 1910. When the Sons of the Revolution unveiled the monument to soldiers and sailors of the Revolution at Annapolis, Md., April, 1911, the chapter sent a handsome laurel wreath tied with the American and French colors. By a liberal contribution the Major L'Enfant Chapter, with seven organizations of national fame, made possible the brilliant and successful ceremonies attending the unveiling of the L'Enfant memorial at Arlington Cemetery last May. The chapter's patriotism was recognized by the invitation from the District Commissioners to the regent, Mrs. Potts, inviting her to serve on the committee of arrangements. The memorial stands upon the green lawn directly in front of the mansion at Arlington, and bears the following inscription:

Pierre Charles L'Enfant
Engineer, Artist, Soldier.

---

Under the direction of Geo. Washington, etc.
Designed the plan for the Federal City.
Major U. S. Engineer Corps 1782
Charter Member of the Society of the Cincinnati
Designed its Certificate of Insignia.

---

Born in Paris, France, August 2, 1755
Died June 14, 1825, while residing at Chilham Castle Manor
Prince George County, Maryland
And was interred there.
Re-interred at Arlington April 28, 1909.

The handsome American and French flags used on this occasion were made by the Regent of the L'Enfant Chapter. The chapter has been proud to bear on its rolls the only Real Daughter in the District of Columbia, Mrs. Sarah Campbell, daughter of John M. Sanford of Hudson, N. Y., a soldier of both the Revolution and the War of 1812-14. The chapter has contributed to the support of this lady whose bodily infirmities in no way impaired her patriotism and love of the flag and all for which it stands.

Margaret Whitten Chapter, of Washington, has given a scholarship of $25 to the Berry School, $5 to the George Junior Republic, $1 to the work of the patriotic committee, contributed $5 to the Harrison and $2 to the Desha memorial, and gave $25 to Continental Hall.

Mary Bartlett Chapter, of Washington, has given its usual annual contribution of $25 toward a scholarship in the Asheville (N. C.) Industrial School, for a descendant of a Revolutionary soldier; decorated, as is its custom, the grave of Anne Royall on the Fourth of July; and contributed $2 for the building fund of the Young Women's Christian Association. A bronze tablet, designed by Mrs. Sally Farnham, of New York City, a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was placed on the wall near the elevator in Memorial Continental Hall and dedicated at the Twenty-first Continental Congress. It is the only tablet designed by a woman in Memorial Continental Hall. A member of the chapter presented to Continental Hall library the Penn Germania, Medford (Mass.) Historical Register and Kentucky State Historical Society Register for the year; also two volumes of Abstracts of Original Applications for Revolutionary Pensions (150 in each), and two volumes of copies of original records found in county seats of Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, and Delaware; and the chapter gave $24 for an index, that the material might be readily consulted.

One of the pension abstracts, that of Philipena, widow of Capt. Charles Polk, of North Carolina, contained copies of four original muster rolls of Capt. Polk's Company of Mecklenburg militia, sent to the department to prove that he was really a captain during the Revolution. These rolls contained the names of twenty or more men who are not mentioned in the Archives of the State of North Carolina, and no other record of whose service is, so far as is known, in existence. The following is an exact copy of these muster rolls:

Dr. The Province of North Carolina.

The ceremony of raising lasted two days, and was attended by "much feasting and the patronizing freely of a barrel of New England rum," so says tradition. When, in recent years, the building was abandoned and fell into decay, it became the property of private individuals and was removed at great expense to its present location within the village limits and placed in good repair. The square pews have been removed, but the high pulpit and sounding board, the deacons' pews, and galleries on three sides, with separate seats for the dusky brethren, still remain. Great was his soul and good his faculties,

Fair health on him her blessings did bestow
And in his cheeks her ruddy charme did throw,

Which neither spares the Great, the Good or Wise

Colonel William Feeter Chapter, of Little Falls, has marked the birthplace of Gen. Nicholas Herkimer, the exercises being under the direction of a descendant of the general's sister, Col. John Kroosman. In 1777 the English war department planned to separate the rebellious New England colonies from New York, New Jersey, and the South. Lord Howe was to hold the line of the Hudson River, Burgoyne to join him at Albany, coming from Canada by Lake Champlain. Another force under St. Leger was to come from Canada by Oswego, lay waste the Mohawk Valley, and all meet at Albany. The latter army reached Fort Stanwix—now Rome, N. Y.—and Gen. Herkimer was instructed to march to the relief of the fort. He issued a call for all male citizens between 16 years and 60 to assemble at Fort Dayton. On the morning of August 4, 1777, the 800 men responding to his call began their march, and on the morning of the 6th met the enemy, and here was fought the Battle of Oriskany. After five hours battle the English with their Indian allies retreated, leaving Herkimer and his men victors in one of the bloodiest battles of the Revolution. The general was wounded, but by the aid of his men was taken from his horse and placed under a tree, from which spot he directed the battle. Later he was carried to his home, where he died 10 days afterwards. His Bible, the sword used by him at the battle, and the jewel used by Sir W. Johnson when Herkimer was made a Mason were all used at the unveiling of the marker.

Oneida Chapter, of Utica, has cooperated with the Daughters of the American Revolution of the Mohawk Valley in marking the route of Gen. Herkimer on his way to relieve Fort Stanwix. The chapter placed two markers, one on the overhead crossing in Utica, inscribed:

1,500 feet east of this spot was the Great Ford of the Mohawk, protected in 1758 by the erection of old Fort Schuyler. Gen. Herkimer used this ford on Aug. 5, 1777, on his march to the relief of Fort Stanwix.

The second marker was placed on Oriskany green, inscribed:

Near this spot on the night of Aug. 5, 1777, Gen. Herkimer, at the head of his column, made his final camp before the battle of Oriskany. From this point he dispatched his runners to Fort Stanwix.

The chapter has contributed $44 to Continental Hall certificates.

John Harper's Scouts and Companies of Morgan's Riflemen, 1,500 men in all, formed the right wing.

On the march, August 9-22, from Otsego Lake to Tioga Point, they passed through Oneonta escorting 250 boats laden with stores, the flotilla moving down the Susquehanna River fronting this park.

Staten Island Chapter, of Staten Island, has placed a tablet on the front of the Dutch Reformed Church at Richmond, with the following inscription:

Reverently erected by the Staten Island Chapter D. A. R. to the memory of Major William B. Gifford, December 27, 175?, February 7, 1814. He served in the war of the Revolution in the Third Regiment from New Jersey, also as Aide-de-camp to Gen. Washington. His grave is under the side-walk in front of this Church.

The church was once burned by the British, and later the widening of the street brought the grave under the sidewalk, where it was discovered by the chapter.

The Journal of American History has been presented to the library at St. George. The chapter has taken part in "safe and sane" celebration of July Fourth, the regent making a public address. The chapter has sent photographic reproductions of historical documents to Continental Hall, and has contributed to the Caroline Scott Harrison Memorial.

Ticonderoga Chapter, of Ticonderoga, has presented three large flags to grade school.

Tioughnioga Chapter, of Cortland, has expended $25 for care of a bowlder placed by the chapter, awarded prize of $5 for the best rank in United States history in the schools, contributed $2 for West Point alms basin, $2 to Real Daughters Memorial, $2 for preservation of historic relic, $25 to Continental Hall. It gave a reception to the Seventy-sixth Regiment New York Volunteers at the time of their fiftieth anniversary and included the Tenth New York Cavalry at the same time. The massacres perpetrated on the New York frontier caused the legislature of 1781 to provide by law for the enlistment of "two regiments for the defense of the frontier of New York." As an additional compensation for their services, the United States Congress also granted each man 100 acres of land in addition to that given by the State. The land granted or set apart for the payment of Revolutionary claims in accordance with the act of Congress was located in the State of Ohio. Arrangements were, however, made which enabled the soldier to draw his whole quota of land in one body in New York on condition of his having first legally relinquished his claim to the 100 acres in Ohio. If he neglected to relinquish such claim, or to enter upon the Ohio lands, the 100 acres reserved for him in New York reverted to the State, and were known as the "State's hundred." If the soldier gave notice of his election to take the 100 acres in New York, but neglected to pay the State's fee of $8 for the survey of the lands, 50 acres reverted to the State and were known as the "survey fifty."

"BOWLDER PLACE" WITH MEMORIAL ERECTED BY THE TIOUGHNIOGA CHAPTER, D. A. R.

When Tioughnioga Chapter was formed in 1900 the members began gathering the names of the Revolutionary soldiers buried in the county and planned to erect an enduring monument to their memory. A fine granite boulder was placed upon a plot of ground at the intersection of three principal streets of Cortland, and surrounded by a substantial iron fence, at a total cost of $1,000, making a restful little park known as "Boulder Place," the chapter obligating itself to the city for its maintenance.

Delaware City Chapter, of Delaware, has given $10 to Continental Hall.

On each 4th of July, the chapter presents historical and patriotic books to the public library. It has awarded annual prizes for the best standing in American history. It has contributed $10 to Continental Hall.

Fort Industry Chapter, of Toledo, maintains a club of Children of the Republic, and has organized a club for girls. It has given illustrated lectures on "Our flag and forests" to the public-school children and to the boys of the Toledo Home.

Fort McArthur Chapter, of Kenton, has contributed $10 to the Southern Educational Association, and given a scholarship in the chair of domestic science at Ohio Northern University. It has given $23 for restoration of an old bell on courthouse, contributed to the Mary Desha Memorial, and placed a marker near the sites of old Fort McArthur, the camp of Gen. Tupper and 1,000 men, and the burial place of 16 men who died in camp; names and dates unknown. This, with seven other markers, was placed and inscribed "Hull's Trail 1812."

George Clinton Chapter, of Wilmington, cooperated with the city in "safe and sane" celebration of July 4. It has the care of the Carnegie Library, which is very successful. Distributed flag code in the school, and assisted in general observance of Flag Day. It has furnished flowers for the Grand Army of the Republic on Memorial Day, and given $10 to Continental Hall. An historic spot 3 miles northwest of Wilmington is known as Deserted Camp. In 1786 an expedition was sent from Kentucky under command of Gen. Benjamin Logan and including among their number Daniel Boone, Simon Kenton, and Judge McManis. Their object was to punish the Shawnees for numerous outrages, and to keep the Miami, Wyandot, Delaware, and Shawnee Tribes at home while Gen. Clark was moving against the Wabash and Vermillion Indians. They encamped for the night at the spot now known as Deserted Camp. Some time during the night a Frenchman deserted and warned the Indians of their approach. The desertion being discovered, a race for the Indian town began. The Indians were preparing to flee. Twenty warriors were killed, 80 taken prisoners, and the town destroyed by fire. Among the prisoners were several lads; one became a member of Gen. Logan's family and received an education. Later he returned to his people and became a chief, but he always kept the name of Logan. The following soldiers' graves have been located:

At Christmas the members gave warm clothing, toys, dolls, books, and fruit to 3 poor families having 12 small children.

The children keep books in which they record loving deeds and won the silver loving cup presented by Mrs. F. T. Dubois.

Fort Steuben Society, of Jeffersonville (Mrs. Nathan Sparks, president), has enrolled at date 20 members. There have been six regular, and three special meetings. The study has been "Lives of the Presidents of the United States from William Henry Harrison to Zachary Taylor."

Easter cards were sent to the inmates of the Old Ladies' Home, and a book, instead of valentines, to the orphans' home.

A handsome couch cover was presented to the high-school rest room.

The society assisted the mother chapter on Decoration Day and Flag Day, and in other public work.

The program always includes "America," "The Lord's Prayer," the poem "Our Flag of Liberty," school song of "Indiana," and "Salute to the Flag."

Samuel Huntington Society, of Huntington (Mrs. Frank Felter, president), held regular monthly meetings from October to June, giving musical and historical program, closing with the "flag salute" and a social hour. The May meeting was "guest day" at the home of Edward Hawkins.

June 14 the society and the mothers of the members were entertained at the home of the president (Mrs. Felter). At this meeting Mr. John Kenower, the oldest inhabitant, told of early days in Huntington.

On July 4 the society was asked to assist in the safe and sane Fourth celebration, by raising the flag on the flagpole erected by the "children" on the courthouse square. The flag was drawn up by the two youngest members, John Lewis Kenower and John R. Beardsley, while the society sang "Star-Spangled Banner." When the flag reached the top of the pole, the pledge was given and the Declaration of Independence read by Donald Piatt. An address by Mrs. Felter followed, and the singing of "America" closed the flag raising.

John Lewis Kenower, John Beardsley, and Charles Piatt rode in a beautiful float, "Spirit of Seventy-six," which received honorable mention when the prizes were given.

The Samuel Huntington Society sold Red Cross seals at Christmas time to the amount of $54. The society has printed programs.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Signal Lantern Society, of Cambridge (Mrs. Edythe B. Hodgdon, president), meets once a month from October to June. There are 38 members, 6 new members last year, the average attendance at meetings being 10, as many are away at college. A card party was given at which $5 was raised and sent to the portrait fund. A party given in May netted the sum of $25. The meetings have been well attended and interesting speakers have addressed the society.

MICHIGAN.

John Paul Jones Society, of Detroit (Mrs. George Washington Moran, president), was founded by Mrs. George William Moore in 1899. The annual meeting was held May 28 at Fort Wayne.

The title of honorary member was conferred upon three of the most prominent patronesses, Mrs. Frederic B. Stevens, Mrs. Charles Dana Standish, Mrs. Russell A. Alger, and the founder of the society, Mrs. Moore. At the close of the business meeting an address on the "American flag" was given by Col. C. A. Booth, commander at Fort Wayne. Miss Mary Hinchman gave a charming talk of her travels through the South. After the meeting, the members scattered over the beautiful grounds of the fort and enjoyed a social hour.

The May meeting was the last of the season.

The October meeting was held at the home of Mrs. A. W. Bosley. The meetings for the remainder of the year were planned in order to be settled by the issuing of the yearbook.

Miss Muriel Lyons was to be hostess for the month. Some amusing incidents of summer trips were told by the members. On motion, the business meeting adjourned and an enjoyable social hour followed in which refreshments were served.

The meeting for November was held at the residence of Mrs. F. V. Davis. A most instructive and interesting talk on "Some old newspapers" was given by Mrs. J. E. Emerson. Mrs. Frederic B. Stevens read a beautiful poem on "The first Thanksgiving," and Miss Emily Lewis also read a paper on the same subject.

December meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas A. E. Weadock. The program for the day consisted of the subjects, "Old furniture, china, and pewter" and "Robert Morris." Miss Catherine Chester read a very interesting account of the former, and Miss Marie Nall read a fine paper on the latter, after which the meeting closed with a social hour.

January meeting was held at the residence of Miss Lyons.

February meeting was held at Mrs. Charles B. Sawyer's residence. After the business meeting a musical program was given, followed by a social hour.

Miss Alma Holden was hostess for the March meeting, which was one of especial interest, for the society's namesake, John Paul Jones, was the subject of a special paper read. Miss Hazel Woodruff read a paper on "The American flag," and "A tribute to Gen. Horace Porter" was also read. Charming piano solos were rendered by Miss Alice Fuller and Miss Muriel Lyons. A social hour followed the business meeting.

The April meeting was held at the residence of Mrs. M. H. Smith. Mrs. Frederic B. Stevens honored the society with her presence. A very delightful musical program followed the adjournment of the business meeting. A beautiful violin solo was played by Charles J. Smith, and piano solos were played by Miss Vanyer Volpen and the Misses Lyons.

This is the first year the society has had a yearbook, to which the regularity of the meetings throughout the year has been due. The society has greatly increased, not only in membership, but in enthusiasm for the work. The society is greatly indebted to Mrs. Stevens for her untiring interest throughout the year

NEW MEXICO.

Patrick Henry Society, of Roswell (Mrs. Alice B. Andrews, president), was organized June 14, 1912, with 14 members, and since then 3 new members have been added to the roll. Meetings are held monthly, when patriotic programs are given, the children being very patriotic and deeply interested in the society.

NEW JERSEY.

Nathan Hale Society, of Bound Brook (Mrs. Charles Thomas, president), reports 26 members, 4 having been admitted during the past year. The patriotic work of the society is done by allowing children who have no Revolutionary lineage to attend the meetings as associate members. They pay the annual dues and are a great acquisition to the society. The society is 17 years old and the president has been its head ever since its organization on June —, 1895.

During the year there have been four regular meetings and two social ones.

NEW YORK.

Betsey Ross Society, of Dunkirk (Mrs. Clark Bloss, president), has 18 members. One member was transferred to the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Meetings are held the last Saturday of each month from October to June, with the exception of December. Meetings are opened by repeating the Lord's prayer. Then follows the "Salute to the flag," roll call, and the minutes are read.

This year the program was more varied, with current topics interspersed with music and games, and at the close light refreshments were served. A delightful talk was given by the father of one of the members at one of the meetings. The Halloween party was greatly enjoyed, as also was the annual county picnic held in June.

Each year something is done in charitable work.

At the annual Daughters of the American Revolution meeting the young ladies served as assistants.

Colonel Willett Society, of Johnstown (Mrs. Katherine McMartin, president), during the past year held monthly meetings on the evening of the first Thursday in each month from October to June. Papers on historical personages and events have been read at these meetings.

In March the society enjoyed a winter picnic and dance, when they were guests of a member of the society. On Flag Day the society was entertained by Mrs. Alexander, regent of the Johnstown Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The treasury has been slightly enriched by a cake sale. Five dollars has been contributed toward the portrait fund.

General Sullivan Society, of Elmira (Mrs. Edward M. Hoffman, president), numbers 82 on its roll, and is divided into senior and junior branches, 14 years being the dividing line, unless the member has entered the high school, when 13 years renders it possible to transfer.

Five meetings have been held during the year besides the Flag Day exercises at the State armory to which both branches were invited—it being the occasion of the presentation of 112 flags (3 by 5 feet) to the Elmira public schools by the Chemung Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Mrs. A. S. Diven Tent, Daughters of Veterans.

On Decoration Day two large jars of geraniums were placed by the Children of the American Revolution on either side of the bowlder erected by the citizens of Elmira as a memorial to Ross Marvin, who lost his life with the Peary arctic expedition.

The work for the General Sullivan Society for the future is—

First. To promote the marking of trail of Gen. Sullivan's army in 1779, starting from the Newtown battle-field marker, erected by the Newtown Battle Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution. Dr. William Elliot Griffis, the eminent author and historian, has contributed a sketch for the line to be followed and places which should be marked. The first bowlder was placed August 26, 1912, at the foot of the State road leading to the Sullivan Monument, erected by the State of New York and dedicated August 29, 1912. On the bowlder is marked "Trail" and beneath the word is an arrow pointing the direction, and beneath the arrow, "Sullivan's Army 1779." Until more grading has been done, no more bowlders can be placed.

Second. To assist the Elmiran who will have charge of the sale of the Red Cross Christmas seals for the antituberculosis work.

Third. To pass on at Christmas a book, toy, or article to children less fortunate than themselves.

Hiawatha Society, of Syracuse (Miss Margaret Hume Ney, president), was organized 1897. The society has 40 members, and from its ranks will the Sons of the American Revolution and the Daughters of the American Revolution be added to in the coming year.

Mrs. W. A. Holden entertained the society on Flag Day, and her beautiful home was elaborately decorated with flags. Prof. W. K. Wicks gave an interesting talk on "The Birth of the Flag." The children gave the "Salute to the Flag" and recited the "Pledge of Allegiance."

The members of the Hiawatha Society, with the aid and cooperation of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Sons of the American Revolution, hope to have a large and patriotic society.

Natham Beman Society, of Plattsburg (Mrs. Jeanette Brookings Tuttle, president), has had a most prosperous year, and has held eight regular meetings with formal and dignified exercises and ever-increasing interest and attendance. At these meetings timely topics, such as "George Washington," "Dickens and his works," "The Maine," "Spanish-American War," "Saratoga pageant," "Old Saratoga," and "Visit to home of Gen. Schuyler," were considered. December's meeting was devoted to loving work for other children, this being preparation for a Christmas tree and gifts for nearly 100 girls from the poorest classes, members of a sewing school in which our former president (Mrs. Vert) and other friends were interested. Money, clothing, and toys for this tree had been collected by a committee from the society.

In February a sleigh ride was taken over a historic route to the homestead once occupied by British officers, where the society's meeting was held and where treasured heirlooms were exhibited. This meeting was very much enjoyed. In May, after the meeting was over, a walk was taken over to Riverside Cemetery, where sleep the heroes of five wars. On four special occasions during the past year has the society assembled about its silken banner—the first time at the rites of its dearly loved member who went to her heavenly home, the second when the French delegation visited Plattsburg Barracks in May, the third at the dedication of the drinking fountain in July; and the fourth, October 13, at the patriotic peace service held in the First Presbyterian Church in commemoration of the Battle of Valcour.

The most notable gathering was the dedication of the sanitary drinking fountain when the Fifth Infantry, on its way to the dedication of the Champlain Monument, marched past the spot, the band playing "America" and the children saluting and pledging allegiance to the flag, after which Gov. Dix dedicated the fountain in the name of the Commonwealth.

Best of all was the motor-boat ride in August over the historic waters of Valcour Strait, scene of the battle in 1776, on past Crab Island (now Macdonough Park), where the Government has reared a fine monument to the heroes of both Valcour and Plattsburg, where at Camp Moorehaven the society was delightfully entertained and later had a chance to visit the lighthouse and noted points on the island.

It was on one of these, since known as Arnold's Point, that Gen. Arnold ran his flagship, the Royal Savage, aground after the conflict.

September 11 the city's bells pealed forth at sunrise, noon, and sunset, and the bells of Beekmantown, Chazy, and West Chazy took up the message, while patriotic citizens flung the Stars and Stripes to the breeze, lest a happy people forget to be grateful for the outcome of that momentous day when the Battle of Plattsburgh was fought on land and sea.

The society numbers 83 members, 73 regular and 10 associate.

Twenty-four new members have joined the society. One was lost by resignation and one by death.

Nellie Custis Society, of Buffalo (Mrs. John Miller Horton, president), according to its annual custom, sent $50 in January to the Berry School in Rome, Ga., where they are paying for the education of a young boy. For two years a cot has been maintained at the fresh-air mission for children.

Each year the members of the Nellie Custis Society have been guests at the birthday celebration of the Buffalo Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, in March.

The children contributed to the work of the magazine committee of the Buffalo Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, by sending magazines and books, which were distributed among the hospitals and institutions of Buffalo.

February, 1912, the society had on deposit in the Commonwealth Trust Co. $75. Since then, dues have amounted to $49.

Old Fort Schuyler Society, of Utica (Mrs. Mary S. Ford, president), was organized January, 1909. Number of members April 1, 1911, 49, of which 35 are active. Number of members enrolled 1911 and 1912, 10; 15 have reached the age limit, and 15 have resigned. One hundred dollars was the amount raised for house to be used at tuberculosis camp. Two dollars was contributed to the portrait fund, and $10 was given for the summer playground.

At one of the meetings Mr. Canfield, of Utica, gave an interesting talk on Indian tradition and life. When a boy, Mr. Canfield lived near the reservation of the Senecas, and heard the chiefs tell others national stories or tribal traditions. The boys were particularly delighted with the lecture.

The amusements of the year were a dance at Christmas and a play in the spring.

Philipse Manor Society, of Yonkers (Mrs. Henry L. Howison, president), is interested in the Garden School, and buys land every year to be cultivated in that school. They are also interested in hospital work, have given flags to two hospitals, and look after a cot in the children's ward. Meetings are held once a month, and the children seem interested in their work.

Light Horse Harry Lee Society, of New York City (Mrs. William R. Stewart, president), has grown in numbers and interest during the past year. In December a dance was given to raise money for a scholarship in the Southern Industrial Association. For three years the society has supported a scholarship, paying $50 a year for the education of a boy of Revolutionary ancestry. Another dance was given at Columbia Yacht Club for the benefit of the patriotic fund. A meeting of the society is held on the second Friday of every month from October to June.

The society has sustained a severe loss recently in the death of Mrs. Frederick Hasbrouck, honorary president. The sum of $5 was contributed to the portrait fund.

Schuyler Society, of Albany (Mrs. S. Helen Andrews, president), has held eight meetings during the year. There have been a number of interesting addresses, also a number of very interesting papers from the members of the society. At present there are 30 members. Three dollars was contributed to the portrait fund and $10 to the local work for tuberculosis.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Conrad Weiser Society, of Reading (Miss Sarah E. Gable, president), has had a most successful year, its activities beginning in the fall with a reception to Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives, and ending with a flag raising on "Flag Day," June 14.

It was at the close of a lecture tour through seventeen States that Mr. Clark visited Reading. The reception was held in the parlors of the largest hotel. The Speaker stood, with Congressman Rothermel, in the north end of the parlor, with a large American flag as a background. The children were presented to Mr. Clark one by one by Mr. John K. Stauffer. After the handshaking, Mr. Stauffer said: "The Speaker has yielded to your request for a brief address, and does so in compliment to the patriotic society you represent." In his talk to the children the Speaker said:

I am glad you have a society which fosters the remembrance of the Revolutionary War. It is a good thing. Revolutionary history is too much neglected. I believe that all children should be taught more of the great men and great deeds of the Revolutionary War.

Another happy event was the presentation of a flag to the Olivet Playground on June 14. The presentation speech was made by Thomas Atwood Willson, a member of the senior branch of the society, and the flag was unfurled by Ruth Virginia Norton, a member of the junior branch.

Then there was a very fine patriotic address by Forrest R. Shanaman.

The society's membership, which now numbers 70, is steadily increasing. During the year just ended two have been transferred to the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Delaware County Society, of Chester (Mrs. William I. Schaffer, president), has held its meetings every three months. It has now enrolled 23 members. There have been five resignations within the last month, owing to the members having become eligible to the Daughters and Sons of the American Revolution.

In July, many flags were presented to the Playground Association to help other children to feel the pride we feel for the "flag."

Financially, the society is in a substantial condition. A contribution will be sent to the portrait fund. The society strives to live up to the motto "For God and my country."

General Muhlenberg Society, of Philadelphia (Mrs. C. H. Taylor, president), can not give a full report, as the president was only appointed a short time ago. The society is progressing and has enrolled at present 63 members. Four classes have been formed among the children in the following branches: Pasting (all children under 6 years), embroidery, crocheting, raffia, and pierced brass. The branches, together with historical work, will constitute the present program. Classes on other subjects will be added as members increase. A more comprehensive report is expected another year.

John Hart Society, of Pittsburgh (Mrs. William A. Smith, president), reports that there have been five business meetings held during the year at the homes of the different members. At the first meeting of the season the year's work is discussed and plans laid for its execution.

The playground, Ormsby Park, located in the mill district of the south side, was taken by the society to be their special care at Christmas time. For this group of children, the older girls, assisted by the associate members, bought and dressed 36 dolls for the girls, and, for the boys, bought 30 driving reins with 15 bells on each.

Through the kindness of Harry Ranson Davis each child received a box of candy. The society makes an effort to respond to every call for a flag from any worthy children's organization or school, although no flag has been given during the year 1912.

Another work of interest is a baby boy, born in July, in whom the members voted to take a permanent interest, rendering whatever assistance they can when it may be needed. In June a very delightful garden party was held at the residence of Mrs. Arthurs, Elizabeth and Bidle Arthurs contributing much to the comfort and pleasure of their guests.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Charles Town South Carolina Society, of Charleston (Mrs. William Moultrie Gourdin, president), holds monthly meetings at Gibbs Art Gallery the first Monday in each month, commencing in October and ending in June; attendance varying from 15 to 30 members. Total number of members, 70. Annual election of officers held at March meeting.

A ball in honor of St. Valentine was given February 14, 1912. A prize was given to the member wearing costume most symbolic of the occasion.

The annual picnic was given on historic James Island the last Saturday in April with a large attendance. All dues to the national society have been paid. The historical work done during the year consisted of selected articles, which were read at the meetings.

This being the first report from this society it is thought good to mention some of the work that has heretofore been done. A handsome marble marker was placed on the site of old Charles Town on Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 25, 1909. Engraved invitations with the insignia of the society illuminated in colors in the left-hand corner of the invitations, were sent out. There was a large attendance of representative people. There was music and an appropriate program. This marker was paid for entirely by the members of the society, no donations being received, except the site (lot 40 feet square), which was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Legare.

At the meeting of the State convention, Daughters of the American Revolution, in 1908, the Charles Town Society donated $10 toward the fund for erecting the Partisan Monument at Columbia, S. C.

Each year since its organization the society has held an annual bazaar the first Saturday in December, from which have been realized the funds for carrying on work and giving social entertainments.

VIRGINIA.

Ann McCarty Ramsay Society, of Alexandria (Mrs. Mary G. Powell, president), has had its membership much depleted from its original members retiring at the age of 18. Some have joined chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution, so that now there are only about 10 children's names on the roll. At the June meeting of the Mount Vernon Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution Mrs. Powell was appointed president to try and increase the membership. She gave a lawn party at her home, at which the children worked with much spirit—realizing $18.40 clear of expense. Fourteen dollars of this sum was donated to the Mount Vernon Chapter for the purchase of a bronze dipper for the drinking fountain that was erected last April by the chapter.

WISCONSIN.

George Rogers Clark Society, of Milwaukee (Mrs. Henry J. Danforth, president), since October has held eight regular meetings. Meetings are always opened with "Salute to the Flag," after which Mrs. Lothrop's poem, "Our Flag of Liberty," is given in unison, followed by a patriotic song. At the meeting in October 15 members were enrolled, and since then others have been added to membership, 3 by transfers and 25 by application.

At the November meeting, held on the anniversary of George Rogers Clark's birthday, one of the boys gave a very interesting talk on George Rogers Clark, he having the past summer traveled through the West in company with a relative of George Rogers Clark and so had many interesting personal anecdotes to relate concerning the hero for whom the society is named.

A colonel in the Civil War also gave a most interesting talk, choosing as his subject "Patriotism."

In December one of the members who had spent her summer vacation in the East gave a very entertaining talk on the historical spots in and about Boston, illustrating some with a number of post cards.

A member of the Milwaukee Art League kindly gave a most delightful talk on "Painting, sculpture, and art during the Revolutionary period," which was instructive and entertaining alike to young and old. There was a patriotic entertainment given in January, for which a small admittance fee was asked, and thereby a neat sum was added to the treasury.

Two meetings were held in February, the first commemorating Lincoln's birthday, when a lecture on "The flag," illustrated with 100 beautiful lantern slides, was given in St. Paul's Chapel by the president of the society, the Boys of the Republic and the Daughters of the American Revolution being the society's guests.

Washington's Birthday was celebrated by a Colonial costume party and dance, when about 35 members assembled in the quaint costume and danced "ye olde tyme" dances and sang "ye olden" songs. As a surprise the president had arranged for a magician with his wonderful black art, and the enthusiasm and pleasure which was in evidence amply repaid for any trouble.

In April the society, assisted by the Boys of the Republic, gave an entertainment for the Daughters of the American Revolution. This consisted of fancy and folk lore dances, vocal and instrumental music, a military drill, and a play entitled "The First Flag."

In December the society was the recipient of a delightful Christmas gift which took the form of 150 copies of their constitution and by-laws, which was presented by the Milwaukee Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The May meeting was in the form of a picnic, where sack and three-legged races were run, and games of all kinds were played, affording much amusement. At this meeting the president told of the National Congress held at Washington in April.

During the year $75 was raised for a pedestal for the bust of George Rogers Clark, which will be presented to the public library with fitting ceremonies on the anniversary of Clark's birthday.

The society has contributed to the portrait fund.

A number of subscriptions have been sent to the Children of the American Revolution Magazine.

CUBA.

Cuba Society of Vedado, Habana (Miss Mary Springer, president), reports only one member left in Cuba (Miss Marjory Albright), as others have joined the Habana Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Two have been transferred to the Daughters, having reached the age limit. Many members of the Daughters of the American Revolution Chapter are in the United States, and upon their return it is the hope of the president to enroll some of the children in the Cuba Society.

THE FOLLOWING REPORTS WERE RECEIVED LAST YEAR (1911) AFTER THE HISTORIAN'S REPORT HAD BEEN SENT IN.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Capital Society, of Washington (Mrs. Carlotta E. Quirollo, president). November (1910) a "pound" party was given (with a generous response) for the Episcopal Home for Children, at Anacostia. Toys were sent to the Children's Hospital, N Street NW., and supplies to Eye, Ear, and Throat Hospital.

A complete outfit for boy in clothes, a scrapbook, and flag were sent to Christ School, Arden, N. C. In December Christmas postals were sent to all out-of-town members. Eight large scrapbooks, made during the fall, were given to two hospitals and orphanage. Two dollars was sent to hospital in Frederick, Md. Flowers were sent to hospitals in March; also donation of supplies to St. John's Orphanage.

Bruen Home for Children was remembered at Easter time by a generous supply of chocolate Easter eggs. A large wreath was placed in Washington's tomb, at Mount Vernon, Va., in April, at the time of the Children of the American Revolution convention.

Decoration Day was observed by exercises at Statuary Hall, United States Capitol, when flags and wreaths were placed on all Revolutionary statues. The society also remembered deceased member's grave.

Toys were sent in June to Episcopal Home. (Report of work during summer months not in hand, as the society meets the third Saturday in the month, and this report is supposed to end October 11.)

Patriotic spirit was kept alive at each meeting by songs, recitations, and well-defined written papers on historical events appropriate to the month in which the meeting was held.

A beautiful prayer, which was adopted by the national board as the "Children of the American Revolution Prayer," was written for the society by the Right Rev. Alfred Harding, bishop of Washington, D. C., and the president is pleased to report that the same was printed, and 50 copies were mailed to out-of-town requests.

The social part of children's life has been supplied by numerous parties by the parents of members. There are 73 members and 7 honorary members, with one transfer to the Sons of the American Revolution.

One of the pleasant moments at the meeting are the "greetings" and "postals" from out-of-town members and friends. These are faithfully written to, and it is found that the idea of sending "sunshine" postals to those ill or away is much appreciated, and in this connection a long letter was sent to the founder, Mrs. Daniel Lothrop while at Mount Vernon in April.

The society keeps in touch with 9 out-of-town societies by frequent letters.

Governor Thomas Wells Society, of Washington (Mrs. Clayton E. Emig, president), has about 30 additional members, and each branch holds a meeting each month from October to May, inclusive. Meetings are interesting and well attended. The members gave a "tea" and earned money, $3 of which was given to help endow a child's bed in the Mary Washington Hospital, at Fredericksburg, Va.

At Christmas the society provided a dinner for 2 families of 10, who were very poor, but were of Revolutionary descent; also provided 25 gifts for other poor children.

The society gave 2 large boxes of clothing to children of the Bruen Home, also made scrap cards into a wall pocket for the Children's Hospital.

On February 22 the senior branch gave a flag to the Bruen Home, with appropriate exercises, and the same day the junior branch gave a flag to Friendship House Settlement.

A colonial play was given, which netted a nice sum for the society's work during the year.

INDIANA.

Samuel Huntington Society, of Huntington (Mrs. Frank Felter, president), held eight regular meetings, with patriotic programs, last year. A home topic, and one of general interest, was considered at the meeting.

Each meeting closed with the flag salute, then followed a social hour, with refreshments. "Flag Day" there was a social meeting at the home of the president.

July 4 a 10-foot flag was raised upon a 45-foot pole on the public square, the pole and flag costing $50, the money being raised by the society.

The flag was raised in honor of the heroes of Huntington County, and was drawn into place by Marcia Cleveland, Josephine, and John Lewis Kenower, three great-great-grandchildren of Elijah Mitchell, Huntington's one Revolutionary soldier. At Christmas time the society sold Red Cross seals to the amount of $64.01.

NEW YORK.

Colonel Marinus Willett Society, of Johnstown (Miss Anne M. Ten Eyck, president), has held nine regular meetings, with an average attendance of 15. At each of these meetings the routine business has been followed by an interesting and instructive program, consisting of papers on historical subjects prepared by members, patriotic music, and stories or articles of Revolutionary incidents. Roll call has been answered by mentioning historical events occurring in the month in which the meeting was held.

At the annual meeting in March Mrs. W. H. Alexander, regent of the Johnstown Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and State promoter of the Children of the American Revolution, presented the society with its charter.

The charter has since been framed in wood from Old St. John's Church, erected by Sir William Johnson, in 1766. Mrs. Alexander also presented a gavel from Mrs. William Cummings Story. This meeting marked the withdrawal from active work in the society of Mrs. E. Burton Wells, who since its organization two years before had served as its very able president. Her withdrawal caused much regret.

The society is working to purchase a piece of furniture for the baronial mansion home of Sir William Johnson, the halls of which are being furnished by the Johnstown Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. To this end each member has earned $1, the boys by selling newspapers and the girls by various ingenious methods.

Two members have become daughters and three have passed the age limit. One new member has been added, making the total membership 23.

The year's work has been most satisfactory. Enthusiastic patriotism has characterized each meeting, and the members have loyally supported their president in her attempt to make the society a living, working force in the community.

OHIO.

Fort Washington Society, of Cincinnati (Mrs. Charles Weber, president), held the first fall meeting Saturday, October 21, at the home of the president; also the November meeting. Since June four new members have been received in the society.

Meetings are held on the third Saturday of each month, beginning in October and ending in May. As the children range from 1 year to 17, after the business session is over the younger ones are put in one room and the older ones in another.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Martha Williams Society, of Philadelphia (Mrs. John F. Develin, president). Owing to the difference in the ages of the children, it was found necessary to divide the membership into senior and junior branches.

During the year from April, 1910, to March, 1911, the junior branch held five meetings and the senior branch three. All joined with the Merion Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, in decorating the graves of Revolutionary soldiers in near-by cemeteries on Decoration Day.

On May 16 the society made a pilgrimage to Valley Forge, visited the memorial chapel and museum; also the Washington headquarters, in which three chapters, Daughters of the American Revolution, have furnished rooms.

Celebrated Flag Day. Each member displayed the Stars and Stripes in the windows or on the house in which he or she lived. In the evening the members met at the home of the president and a patriotic program was given.

At the meeting held on March 25 resolutions of sorrow and regret were passed upon the death of Mrs. Gertrude B. Darwin, who had on two occasions been the guest of Mrs. John F. Develin, president of the society. Mrs. Darwin had then addressed the children, and her visits were remembered with pleasure.

At each meeting a patriotic program, with "Salute to the Flag," and Mrs. Lothrop's poem, "Our Flag of Liberty," is given.

One member, having reached the age limit, was transferred to the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Three new members have been received into the society.

---

No other societies than those mentioned in this report have transmitted reports to the national historian.

The society which gained the largest number of new members, thus winning the loving cup offered by Mrs. Albert Baird Cummings, was the John Hancock Society, of Shreveport, La., of which Mrs. John Pinckney Scott is president.

The loving cup offered by Mrs. Frederic T. Dubois for the most loving work for other children was won by Governor Thomas Wells Society, of Washington, D. C., of which Mrs. Clayton E. Emig is president.

Mrs. Cummings has offered a medal to the child bringing in the largest number of new members.
